DEFYING WILSON CALIFORNIA BACKS ANTI-JAP MEASURE

Following Secret Conference With Bryan Alien Land Bill Is Put on Its Passage In Senate.

WILSON'S MESSAGES PROVES OF NO AVAIL

Measure on Passage Is a Substitute Which Embodies Limitations of Treaty With Japan — It Will Become Law by Thursday.

Sacramento, Cal., April 29.—If the purpose of the visit of secretary of State Bryan was to check further action by the legislature on an alien land law directed against the Japanese, his mission has failed.

The conferences between Secretary Bryan and the legislators closed at 11:30 o'clock tonight. Within three minutes, and before most of the spectators knew what had occurred, Senator A. E. Boynton, president pro tem of the upper house, convened the senate and an amended land bill, which provides that no alien who is ineligible t citizenship under the laws of the United States may hold real property in California, was adopted as a substitute for the pending measure by unanimous viva voce vote.

Final Passage Thursday.

"It will come up for final passage i the regular course of business on Thursday morning, and probably will be approved, and when it comes to Governor Johnson it will be signed, according to the opinion of leaders.

The new bill is drawn in strict conformity with the treaty between Japan and the United States, but all efforts to gain an opinion from Secretary Bryan or President Wilson failed, and the state leaders decided forthwith to proceed with their plans for enacting it into law.

Secretary Bryan brought into the final conference tonight more messages from President Wilson, but they met with no response from the legislators. At the close of the secret meeting Governor Johnson and a number of the administration leaders said their opinions remain unchanged.

President Wilson's messages were in the form of replies to questions asked Secretary Bryan on the preceding day.

Approach to Trial.

In answer to the question as to the effect a law containing the words "ineligible" to citizenship would have upon the federal government, President Wilson sent the following to Secretary Bryan:

"I can only say that I cannot assume that the representations heretofore made to the governor and the legislature and which your presence in Sacramento must necessarily have greatly emphasized, will be disregarded, and so renders it necessary to consider that question."

That was taken as the nearest approach to a threat of danger that has been made since the conferences began.

Governor Johnson prepared a statement in which he expressed views of the majority party.

"The conferences between the secretary of state and the legislature were concluded tonight," it says. "We were delighted with Mr. Bryan and all that he said was given the most attentive and respectful consideration. Every opportunity was accorded him and the conference closed only when he stated that he had nothing further to say.

"After it all, though I think the majority of the legislators felt, and I certainly do myself, that no sufficient reason has been thus far presented that should cause California to halt in any contemplated legislation.

"If any law be enacted, it may be safely asserted, treaty obligations will be scrupulously observed. The Japanese will not be singled out by any act. The modification made by the naturalization laws of the nation estab-

GIRL'S REFUSAL TO WED CAUSES BLOODY FIGHT

Chicago, April 29.—Anthony Morasco was so angered by Anna Forte's refusal to marry him here today, that he attacked the young woman, but the struggle did not last long, for a hatchet, said to have been wielded by Anna's brother, felled Antonio. He died instantly.

The uproar alarmed Anna's mother, who discharged a revolver. It went through a window and hit Frank Alfona, a pedestrain. He is said to be mortally wounded.

Anna's brother, Pasquale, has not been apprehended, but Anna, aged 16, and her mother were arrested.

SURGEONS TO CHANGE FACE OF SQUEALER ORTIE M'MANIGAL

Los Angeles, Cal., April 29.—Ortie E. McManigal, confessed dynamiter, plans to have his appearance altered by surgery when he is released. It is reported hi srelease from the county jail may be granted at any time, and McManigal hopes to so change himself that no one will know him as the man whose testimony sent the McNamara brothers and more than a score of labor union officials to prison. Detectives say the time of release will be kept secret, to aid him, according to a statement published here today.

McManigal fell from a moving wagon while a child and the wheel inflicted an injury on his head, and left a long scar across his forehead. The mark aided detectives who traced him after the destruction of The Los Angeles Times building by dynamite. Doctors have told McManigal that the scar can be removed, and he plans to have it done, as soon as he gains his freedom.

FOR BURNING STORE HE GOES TO THE PEN

South Bend, Ind., April 29.—Ben Kahn, convicted of burning his store here, today was sentenced to from two to twenty-one years in the Indiana state prison. Judge Funk granted Kahn's plea for bail, pending an appeal. His bond was fixed at $10,000.

Evidence was introduced at Kahn's trial tending to show the working of an alleged "arson trust" in many central west states. It also resulted in the confession of Ben Fink that he was the "torch for the trust," and about one hundred arrests have been made.

FACTORY CLOCK NOT PUNCHED FOR HOURS ON NIGHT OF MURDER

Newt Lee, Negro Watchman, Had a Record for Punctuality in Registering Time Until Night of the Killing—Bloody Shirt Found in His Home by Detectives, but Negro Asserts That He Had Not Seen It for Two Years—Blood Was Fresh, Assert Officers.

MORE ARRESTS WILL BE MADE TODAY, SAY MEN ON THE CASE

"We Have Sufficient Evidence to Convict the Murderer of Mary Phagan, Declare Local Detectives and Pinkertons—Leo M. Frank Subjected to a Gruelling Third Degree—Rumors Spread Over City That Lee Had Confessed Denied by Chief Lanford.

The record of the factory time clock in the pencil plant was brought to police headquarters last night. It shows an irregularity in three separate periods during the night of the murder of Mary Phagan.

Lee, the negro night watchman, was supposed to punch the time piece every thirty minutes during each night of duty. Up until 9:32 o'clock Saturday night it was visited with regularity. An adjustment was skipped from that time until 10:29 o'clock. At 11:04 another adjustment was missed. The next punch was registered at midnight.

The most convincing irregularity of the record sheet, however, is the adjustment that was missed between 2 o'clock Sunday morning and 3. The body was discovered at 3:30 o'clock. Where was the watchman when he failed to punch the hour?

Coincident with the discovery of the irregular clock register comes the information that the negro was a trustworthy watchman, performed his duties faithfully, and previously adjusted the clock with regularity.

Bloody Shirt Found at Lee's Home.

Another find, which the sleuths declare is direct evidence of guilt, was the discovery of a fancy shirt, splotched with blood, which was found in the house on Hendrix avenue, in which the suspect lived.

Detectives Black and Scott brought it to headqaurters Monday afternoon. The negro was confronted with it. After careful examination of the bloody garment, he said:

"White folks, that's a shirt I wore two years ago. It wasn't bloody then. I ain't seen it since. Honest, that's the truth."

The blood is obviously fresh. Only hurried examinations have been made. A negro woman occupant of the house in which it was found was also brought to police station. She testified that it had not been worn by the negro on the day of the murder. It had not been seen, she said, since two years ago.

If the crime was committed by the wearer of the telltale garment, as the police assume, Lee, they say, would have had ample time to go to his home, remove the shirt and return to the factory.

LEO M. FRANK HOLDS CONFERENCE WITH LEE

After Talking With Him an Hour, Factory President Fails to Secure a Confession.

Sitting alone in the detectives' office at headquarters, Frank, the factory president, and Lee, the negro night watchman, both suspects held in connection with the Phagan murder, conferred for an hour shortly before midnight.

The conference was made at the request of detectives. It was believed Frank would be able to wring a confession from the negro. At midnight, he emerged from the room.

"I can't get a thing out of him. He tells the same story over and over."

It was the first time the two prisoners and faced one another since the gruelling third degree to which both were doubly subjected at noon. It was the first opportunity they had obtained to converse in private.

Inquest This Morning.

Coroner Donehoo last night set the time for the inquest at this morning at 8:45 o'clock. It will be held in Bloomfield's undertaking establishment on South Pryor street. A thorough investigation will be made into the mystery. It will then be determined if the evidence at hand is sufficient to commit Frank and the negro watchman to higher courts.

CLOCK AND THE SHIRT CALLED IMPORTANT LINKS

Detectives consider the clock register and crimson shirt as strong links in the chain they are forging around the black man. Following such expression of their confidence, comes this theory, which was advanced last night:

Is the watchman suspect a victim of planted evidence? Is the real murderer striving to convict an innocent man?

It is plausible. The shirt could not possibly have remained for two years in the bottom of the barrel under the pile of refuse that it was found. It is fresh, clean and evidently had not been worn for more than a day. The negress brought to headquarters declared that Lee had not worn the garment on the day of the murder. He wore the shirt in which he was arrested, she stated.

SOME THEORISTS BELIEVE EVIDENCE WAS PLANTED

The theory is advanced by some that the prisoner is a victim of plant-

$2,200 REWARD!

The Constitution repeats its offer of a Reward of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS for Exclusive Information that will lead to the Arrest and Conviction of the murderer of Mary Phagan. The man who gets this reward will, incidentally, be entitled to the City's Reward of $1,000.00, and the State's Reward of $200.00—$2,200.00 in all if detection comes through information exclusive to The Constitution.

ed evidence. They say that the watchman's clock evidence is flimsy and openly crude. The date, April 27, is apparently stamped upon the register sheet with a stamp detached from the timepiece's mechanism. Lee did not touch the clock after his arrest. Customarily, he never affixed the date until the hour he was relieved from duty each morning.

It is obvious that no one, in the tense excitement which naturally prevailed upon the tragedy's discovery, thought of the clock. The building was locked and guarded by policemen. Nobody has come forward with the information that the date had been stamped upon the sheet.

It would have been an easy task to replace Saturday night's clock record with that of a previous night when the watchman's adjustment had been irregular. Frank, himself, states that the negro had failed to punch it properly on the preceding night.

More Arrests Expected.

"We have sufficient evidence to convict the murderers of Mary Phagan. More arrests will be made before daybreak. The mystery is cleared!"

Detectives Harry K. Scott and John Black emerged, tired and sweating, from a gruelling third degree of three hours to which Leo M. Frank and the negro night watchman were subjected yesterday afternoon, and made this announcement to a reporter for The Constitution.

The mystery, as baffling as any which the police department of any southern city have been confronted, is now being cleared. The slayers of Mary Phagan are known.

Neither of the detectives would give names. Chief Lanford said, however, that the crime lay between the negro watchman and the factory president. Chief Beavers would not commit himself.

Satisfied With Progress.

"I am satisfied with the progress we have made," were his only words.

Frank firmly denies a guilt. He expresses confidence that he will be released this afternoon. To a reporter for The Constitution who talked with him after the third degree, he made a complete statement of his actions on the afternoon and night preceding the discovery of the girl's body.

"I'll admit that I was alone in the building from 4 o'clock until 6. I was working on the office books and reports, though. No one else was in the place. That's positive. I'll swear it.

"I would hardly have remained in Mary Phagan had we met on the street," he said.

His chief defense, he avers, will be alibi to prove his whereabouts during the hours of Saturday and Sunday morning except the space of time between 4 and 5:30 o'clock.

Remained at Factory.

"I was with two of the plant's mechanics," he told, until 4 o'clock. They left at that time. The negro watchman, Lee, showed up just about 4 o'clock. I had prepared to go to the ball game. It was cold and dreary and looked like rain. I had a lot of work to do in the office. It needed me more than the ball game. I decided to remain at the factory.

"Saturday afternoon was half-holiday. When the watchman showed up, there was no need for him around the place while I was there. He deserved holiday, too.

"You can go out and knock around until 6 o'clock,' I told him.

"At 6 o'clock he re-appeared. Gantt showed up bout that time, hunting his shoes. I gave him permission to go into the building and referred him to the watchman.

"At 6:30 o'clock I went directly home and remained there until I heard of the discovery of Miss Phagan's body."

"How did you hear of it?" he was asked.

"Detective Starnes called me over the telephone about 6 a. m. He came out for me in an automobile. I went immediately to the factory."

Locked Up Doors.

Frank's first act after viewing the corpse, it was remembered by The Constitution reporter, who went with the police when they first visited the scene, was to nail up the door which had been broken open in the basement, presumably by the girl's slayers.

"I am not guilty. Such an atrocious crime has never entered my mind. I am a man of good character and I have a wife. I am a home-loving and God-fearing man. They will discover that. It is useless to detain me, unless for investigation and for information I might be able to give."

Frank stated that he was no surprised when the detectives came to arrest him Tuesday afternoon.

"I had been expecting it," he said. "I knew I would possibly be able to render information that would lead to the real murderers."

Frank Given Third Degree.

He was taken into custody shortly before noon. Detectives Starnes and Black found him in the offices of the pencil plant. He willingly submitted, and was rushed to headquarters in the automobile of Chief Beavers.

Immediately upon arriving there, he was locked in the office of Chief Lanford with Finkerton Detective Scott, Lanford, Chief Beavers and other police experts. For three hours he was grilled and questioned. The negro watchman was interrogated at the same time and in the presence of Frank.

Frank is a small, wiry man, wearing eyeglasses of high lens power. He is nervous and apparently high-strung. He smokes incessantly and stuffed a pocket with cigars upon leaving for police headquarters at the arrest. His dress is neat, and he is a fluent talker, polite and suave.

The doors had been locked behind him during the third degree no more than thirty minutes when Attorney Luther Rosser, counsel retained by the factory president, appeared at police station.

Rosser Denied Admittance.

As he started to climb the steps leading from the second floor to the detective quarters in the third story, he was checked by Policeman John W. West, who had been stationed at that point with orders to admit no one upstairs.

"You can't go up there," the attorney was told.

"I will go. I want to see Mr. Frank," Mr. Rosser replied.

"You'll have to get permission from the chief. I've orders to admit no one."

The lawyer left in an angry state. Within a few minutes he communicated with Chief Beavers over telephone. The chief assured him that he would be admitted to the building and even to the room in which his client was being interrogated.

When Mr. Rosser later came into the presence of Frank's questioners, a stormy scene ensued between him and Chief Beavers. Sounds of hot words came through the closed door and attracted a large crowd of detectives and reporters.

Lawyer Demands Admittance.

The lawyer was heard to say:

"I've got my opinion of how a chief of police should conduct himself. I had a perfect right to be admitted by that policeman downstairs—the right as a citizen and as a lawyer. He told me he had orders to keep me down from here. He even called my name."

"I've got my opinion, too, of how a police department should be run," said the chief. "I did not give instructions to keep you from my office. I ordered that the crowd be kept away."

"I wasn't crowded, was I?"

soon the argument was over, however, and Rosser returned. The third degree questioning was resumed in presence of the subject's counsel.

During the course of the questioning, Detective Scott, who is an operative of the Pinkertons, began interrogating Frank. The Pinkertons were employed by the murder club Monday night by the National Pencil company through the suspected president.

Hired to Learn the Truth.

Frank turned upon the Pinkerton man:

"You're acting mighty funny. You were hired by me, if you remember. Why should you ask me such questions?"

"I was put on the case by my superiors," he answered. "They were employed to catch the murderer. That was what I was instructed to do. If you are the murderer, then it's my duty to convict you," the detective replied.

At the close of the third degree he was nervous and plainly agitated. He clung to the arm of friends as they ascended the three flights of steps to the prison.

A charge of suspicion was entered against him. He first was locked in a cell with the negro guard was placed over him, and he was removed to the detectives' quarters.

Frank's Wife Arrives.

While her husband was being sweated by the detectives, Mrs. Frank, the beautiful young wife of the factory president, tearful and anxious, came to police headquarters. She was accompanied by friends. Denied admission to the floor on which her husband was held, she, guard was placed over him, and he was removed to the detectives' quarters.

She did not remain long. She left before the third degree was finished, and never returned. Mrs. Frank, who stands the highest for its remarkable record of cures.

A WARNING TO MANY

Some Interesting Facts Regarding Health Statistics

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine, for he knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly the other organs cannot be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease, which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1910, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

fearfully and apparently verged on a breakdown.

It is said that the arrest of Frank resulted from evidence dropped by the negro suspect. At 4 a. m. he was awakened in his cell and questioned grillingly by Detective Black. From then on the day was one of incessant interrogation.

Handwriting Examined.

Specimens of the negro's handwriting according to micrascopic examinations of handwriting experts, compare favorably with that of the notes found beside the victim's body.

It was rumored around headquarters that the mysterious package carried by Detective Black, when he returned to the station after an automobile trip, contained a bloody shirt of the negro prisoner. It was said that he could not give a satisfactory explanation.

Habeas corpus proceedings were instituted in behalf of John M. Gantt, the young bookkeeper arrested Monday afternoon in connection with the Phagan murder. The prisoner was transferred to the county jail and placed in charge of the state.

Gantt Not Guilty.

Chief Lanford said Monday night that he had abandoned the theory that Gantt was implicated in the crime. He was merely a victim of circumstantial evidence, it was said, and he is believed to be entirely guiltless. He probably will be released within a short while.

No one answered The Constitution's story asking for information relative to Mary Phagan's whereabouts on the afternoon of her murder. Evidently, she was not seen after entering the factory doors at 12:01 o'clock Saturday afternoon to draw her salary. It is the theory of the police that she never emerged alive from the building.

Psychological Methods Fail to Get Confession.

Confident that he could wring a confession from Newt Lee, Francis E. Wright, a salesmanager living on Pulliam street, came to police headquarters early last night, and conferred with detectives.

The prisoner had just finished undergoing rigid questioning from a number of detectives. Wright was admitted to the locked room in which the negro sat handcuffed to a chair. Chief Lanford introduced the newcomer as a minister, sent to console the negro.

The door was locked, leaving Wright and the prisoner together. The latter sat nervous and fidgety, his eyes roving in every direction. The white man began:

"You Haven't Long on Earth."

"Newt, you haven't got long on this earth—only a few days. They're going to get you—They've already got you. What little time you've been allotted for life, you'd better put it to good advantage.

"There isn't but one thing—to do—tell all you know and cleanse your soul. If you die with a lie on your lips, you'll drop straight to perdition. There isn't a chance for you. This earth is hell enough. But the next world—that's the thing for you to consider.

"They're going to electrocute you. They're going to fry you. I saw it done once. I witnessed a white man sent to death for a murder he had committed. It was the most horrible sight I ever saw. I would hate to see even you go to the chair."

On Bible Swears Innocence.

Wright hesitated, giving time for his words to take effect. The negro raised his eyes. The white man jerked from his pocket a strip of paper. It was the full page head-line of an afternoon paper:

"NEGRO'S GUILT PROVED"

Negro Kisses the Bible.

The suspected watchman gazed, unmove, upon the type. Wright dramatically drew a small pocket Bible from his coat and held it before the eyes of the black man.

Lee took from the chair as much as his handcuffs would permit. Dropping to his knees, he fervently kissed the book.

"I swear 'fore God I didn't do it."

Wright pocketed the Bible and moved to the door. As he emerged from the room he exclaimed to the group of detectives and reporters standing by:

"He's as innocent as a babe!"

It was rumored freely over the city until a late hour last night that the negro watchman had confessed, and that his admission was being kept secret by the detective department at police headquarters. This report was declared by Chief Lanford to have been totally untrue.

Arthur Mullinax, the ex-street car conductor, of 66 Poplar street, who was arrested Sunday night for suspected complicity in the Phagan tragedy, is still detained at police headquarters. The suspicion around him is rapidly dissolving. It is predicted that he will be released shortly.

MURDER DONE 13 YEARS AGO LAID AT DOOR OF GEORGIAN; TOWN IS STIRRED BY ARREST

Calhoun, Ga., April 29.—(Special)—Thomas Lyerla, who has been for about five years a law-abiding citizen of Calhoun, was arrested this afternoon charged with murder in the first degree.

It is alleged that the crime was committed in Pontiac, Ill., over thirteen years ago by Ray Scrivens and that Thomas Lyerla is an alias. The arrest was made by the sheriff of Barrow county through whom the Illinois officers have been working for the apprehension of the fugitive.

There is a reward of $1,200 for the capture of the right man.

Lyerla was notified by a friend that the officers were seeking him on the charge of murder, but he laughed at the idea and said that he would find the officers and assure them that he was not the right man. He came down town and the officers quickly handcuffed him.

Arrest Causes Excitement.

Much excitement was caused by the arrest and the people of Calhoun do not believe that Lyerla is the man wanted. Efforts were made to prevent his being taken to Cartersville, but the Barrow men outwitted the Calhoun authorities and left with the prisoner about 5 o'clock. None of the citizens would allow the use of an automobile and "hot" were forced to use a livery team. Lyerla was not allowed to see his wife and children, but was hurried away heavily handcuffed.

He hails from Campaign, Ill., where he was born and reared, but he has never concealed the fact and has been visited by his sister, Miss Lena Lyerla, of Mount Vernon, Ill.

Makes Absolute Denial.

He claims that he has never been in the town of Pontiac where he is alleged to have committed the crime. He says he is willing to go to Illinois if necessary and establish his innocence.

Lyerla was fromerly in the employment of the Southern Bell Telephone company as a cable splicer, but during the past few years he has been a painter, working in Calhoun.

Since coming here he married Miss Nea Jones.

An unusual feature of the case is that his wife's uncle, Bob Jones, who is popularly known as "Shotheel Jones," of Cartersville, did the detective work. He came up with the officers, first went out and took dinner at the Lyerla home, with the purpose of quietly leading Lyerla into the hands of the sheriff. Lyerla was not at home, however.

It is said that there is feeling between Shotheel Jones and Lyerla and that this is the reason for the effort to implicate him as Ray Scrivens.

At Cartersville officers from Illinois will identify Lyerla as Scrivens if he is the right man and he will be taken to Pontiac for trial.

An automobile party composed of friends of Lyerla left shortly after the sheriff for Cartersville.

WHILE HUNDREDS SOB BODY OF MARY PHAGAN LOWERED INTO GRAVE

While relatives hysterically wept, while hundreds of friends, with wet eyes and bowed heads, mourned, while little circles of grim visaged men talked in hushed voices of all that remained of little 14-year-old Mary Phagan, victim of Saturday night's atrocious crime, was lowered into a grave at the city cemetery at Marietta yesterday morning.

"The Lord hath given, the Lord hath taken, blessed be the name of the Lord," said Rev. T. C. Linkous, pastor of the Christian church at East Point, as tears streamed down his cheeks. And the grave-diggers grasped their spades and filled the grave.

When the sad little funeral party arrived in Marietta with the casket shortly before 9 o'clock, there was a great crowd at the station to meet them. With solemn mien, hundreds of men and women, girls and boys, followed the train of carriages to the Second Baptist church.

Pallbearers Selected at Church Yard.

So unstrung was everyone connected with the tragedy that no details had been looked after. It was upon the church grounds that the pallbearers, L. M. Scruell, B. Avery, Ralph Butler and W. T. Potts, were selected.

With the little white casket on their shoulders, they filed into the tiny country church. Then the crowd poured in. Within five minutes every pew had been taken, every available inch of standing room was occupied and hundreds, who could not get in, were standing on their tiptoes on the steps, trying to catch a word of the services.

With voices that cracked because of choked back tears, yet were sacred because of the feeling behind them, the choir sang "Rock of Ages." A dozen times during every stanza they were interrupted by the wailings of the bereaved mother.

"The light of my life has been taken. Oh, God, and her soul was as pure and as white as her body," she sobbed incoherently. No attempt was made to stop her. Sometimes the clergyman came down from the pulpit and spoke words of encouragement, sometimes her husband tightened his grasp around her waist, but they did not interfere.

Not a Dry Eye in Church.

Before the hymn had been sung through, there was scarcely a dry eye in the whole church. And from that time on the sobbing and the muffled sobbing seemed to sanctify the services, like some rich old chant of the days gone by.

Dr. Linkous rose to the pulpit.

"Let us pray," he said.

In a voice that, though hushed, seemed to reverberate through the hole edifice, he asked for power that he might pray as he should. "The occasion is so sad to me—then she was but a baby, I taught her to fear God and love Him—that I don't know what to do," he said.

As he continued, a new eloquence seemed to creep into his voice. Tears gushed from his eyes, and he let them course down his cheeks unheeding, trying to brush them off, yet every moment seemed to bring new power, new strength to him.

"We pray for the police and the detectives of the city of Atlanta," he said. "We pray that God will help them perform their duty and bring the wretch that committed this act to justice. We pray that we may not hold too much rancor in our heart—cannot do not vengeance—yet we pray that the authorities apprehend the guilty party or parties and punish them to the fullest extent of the law. Even that is too good for the imp of satan that did this. Oh, God, I cannot see how even the devil himself could do such such a thing."

"Amen!" Cries Aged Grandfather.

When he made the allusion to the criminal, the faces of those on the front pews family and friends set, seemed to tighten. The mother stopped crying for a moment, and the aged grandfather exclaimed, "Amen."

"I believe in the law of forgiveness," continued the clergymen. "Yet I do not see how it can be applied in this case. I want the wretch, this devil, be caught and punished according to the man-made, God-sanctioned laws of Georgia. And I pray, oh, God, that the innocent ones may be freed and cleared of all suspicion."

It was at this point that Miss Lizzie Phagan, aunt of the victim of the crime, shrieked wildly, and, as the result of her overwrought emotions, dropped limply from her seat. She was carried out to a carriage and taken home.

Dr. Linkous alluded in his sermon to the crime as possibly an agent of God in a grotesque guise.

"Mystery," he declared vehemently. "I would speak a word to you. Let this warn you. You cannot watch your children too closely. Even though their parents be an Adam and Eve that of not be forced into dishonor and into the grave by some heartless wretch, like the guilty man in this case.

Only Consolation I Can Offer.

"Little Mary's purity and the hope of the world alone is my only consolation that I can offer you," he said, speaking directly to the members of the bereaved family. "Had she been snatched from our midst in a natural way, by disease, we could bear up more easily. Now, we can only thank God that though she was dishonored, she fought back the fiend with all the strength of her fine young body, even unto death.

"All that I can say is God bless you. You have my heartfelt sympathy. That is all that I can do, for my heart, too, is full to overflowing."

When Dr. Linkous concluded, the casket was opened, and the crowd was allowed to pass up and see, for the last time, the face of the girl that was so beloved in the little country village that she once called home.

Although almost everyone passed the coffin, it was not the morbid crowd that thronged the undertaking parlors while the body was there. Real feeling, real sorrow, was exhibited as the mournful procession wended its way around the bier.

Many tears, silent tributes to the dead girl, dropped down on the flowers that surrounded her mutilated face.

Her Playmate Breaks Down.

Annie Castle, a 19-year-old girl who worked with Mary at the knitting mills at Marietta, three years ago, broke down completely when she saw the body.

Hysterically sobbing, she was led out of the church by friends. Caring nothing for her neat, tailored dress, not seeming to notice the hundreds of eyes that were focussed on her, she sank down on the church steps and wept as if her heart would break.

"And she was so good and kind and gentle," she wailed, apparently to herself. "Oh, the vile wretch that killed her—I could kill him with my hands if I saw him."

Her sentiments were echoed in a crowd of dry-eyed men with lowering brows that pityingly watched her.

"The nigger knows all about it," growled a sunburnt farmer, a wry, humorless smile disfiguring his face. "And I could make him talk. Oh yes, if we had that scoundrel in Marietta, we'd know how to get him to talk. We'd make him be polite. He'd talk just as pretty as you please for us. Either that—or something else."

And his knotted fingers twined lovingly around each other.

They were strong, powerful fingers, ones that can squeeze the life from one with one grasp, and his motion would have boded evil had the negro been within reach of the public.

Casket Carried to Grave.

Finally the crowd in the church thinned out, and the casket was brought out. Mrs. Phagan was half carried out, her husband, J. W. Coleman, on one side of her, and Dr. Linkous on the other. Behind them walked the sorrowing sister, with her brother Ben, a sailor from the United States ship Franklin, who arrived in Atlanta Monday night. The smaller brothers, Joshua and Charlie, brought up the rear.

While the hearse and carriages went around the road to the cemetery, the great crowd poured over the railroad tracks to the cemetery.

Dr. Linkous spoke briefly at the grave. The old comforting lines, "Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust," did not seem to comfort even him, and he broke off his prayer, as if he thought that time alone, and no words on earth, could heal the wounds that had been made in the hearts of the family.

When the first shovelful of earth was thrown down into the grave Mrs. Phagan broken down completely. Half delirious, she moaned of her daughter.

Taken Away When Spring Was Coming.

"She was taken away when the spring was coming—the spring that was so like her. Oh, and she wanted to see the spring. She loved it—it loved her. She played with it—it was a sister to her almost."

On she wailed. Her husband tried to quiet her, but he failed. She crept up to the edge of the grave, and taking from the clergyman's hand the handkerchief that he had been using to wipe away her tears, she waved it.

"Goodby, Mary," she sobbed. "Goodby. It's too big a hole to put you in though. It's so big—b-i-g, and you were so little—my own little Mary!"

CITY TO OFFER $1,000 FOR SLAYER'S ARREST

Mayor Woodward Declares the Stain of Blood Must Be Wiped Out.

Atlanta, April 29, 1913.

To the General Council,

City of Atlanta.

The general council of the city of Atlanta is hereby called to convene in special session tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, April 30, 1913, to take cognizance, in an official way, of that most brutal crime that was committed in this city on last Saturday night.

I think it proper that the city government should take some befitting action as regards this most deplorable matter, which, as it is, is likely to cast unfavorable criticism upon the name of our fair city, and I would suggest that your honorable body offer a suitable reward of not less than $1,000 for the capture of the brute or brutes that could so far forget themselves as to commit such an abominable crime. I feel satisfied that every taxpayer of this city will heartily co-operate in endorsing the action of the mayor and general council in offering this reward. Respectfully submitted.

(Signed) JAMES G. WOODWARD.

The murder of poor little Mary Phagan, in the dark basement of the National Lead Pencil company's factory, Saturday night, will be considered by Atlanta's city council today.

At noon Tuesday, Mayor James G. Woodward issued a proclamation calling for a special meeting of council for Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock. He will ask that a reward of $1,000 be offered for the apprehension of the brute or brutes who committed the girl.

The Constitution has a standing offer of $1,000 for exclusive information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer. The state offered $200. Governor Joseph M. Brown will be asked to see $1,000 on behalf of the state.

Very nearly every member of council was reached from the office of City Clerk Walter Taylor, before 4 o'clock. Tuesday afternoon, and a majority declared that they will be present and will vote for the resolution. Some believe that the reward should be $2,500. Others are of the opinion that $500 would be sufficient in view of the fact that the city's finances are a bit straitened.

A resolution will probably be introduced by Councilman Ashley, of the fourth ward, to make it possible for the city detectives and policemen to participate in the rewards.

GANG OF BURGLARS LED BY POLICEMAN

Chicago, April 29.—William Ohm, a patrolman, was named as the silent leader of a gang of seven burglars in a confession by three of the alleged thieves today. Ohm was arrested and taken to the city hall where Assistant Chief of Police Schuettler cut the buttons off his coat and took his star from him.

Information that the officer was in league with crooks was brought to the assistant chief by attorneys for the accused men. They were told by their clients that Ohm, who walks a beat in the day time, "tipped them off" to the places on his beat which they could rob at night. They asserted Ohm participated in the profits of thirty-seven "jobs" since January. Ohm denies the charges.

Mrs. John Hersey, of Paterson, N. J., who has been the guest of Mrs. John M. Slaton, is now the guest of Mrs. A. L. Whitaker.

This idea that $25 is a good price to pay for a suit of clothes seems to have struck a responsive chord in the minds of a lot of men. Many of you realize that you have been too careless about clothes buying; you've spent your money for results you didn't really get.

There's no reason why you shouldn't buy your clothes just as you do other things; with the same demand for a value-equivalent for your money. If you demand goods at the lowest possible price, you must expect to get the lowest possible value. The importance of paying a little more lies in the more you get in looks and durability.

If men were more careful on this price point, they'd get better returns for their money. We suggest $25 for a suit as a good place to start your reform.

SOCIOLOGISTS END ATLANTA MEETING

Address of Dr. Henry Stiles Bradley on "The Drag on Modern Civilization," Feature of Day.

SOCIOLOGISTS HONOR PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER

Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the president, was appointed corresponding secretary of the sociological congress for the state of Virginia. In selecting Miss Wilson, it was not done because of her prominent position, but for the fact that she is rapidly becoming one of the leading sociological workers in the country. It is thought that Miss Wilson will wield much influence in that state, and in all probability she will be present at the next meeting of the Southern Sociological congress.

The second annual conference of the Southern Sociological congress passed into history last night at one of the most brilliant meetings ever held in Wesley Memorial church.

At the morning session what was pronounced one of the most scholarly addresses of the entire conference was delivered by a former Atlanta man—Dr. Henry Stiles Bradley, now of Worchester, Mass., who spoke on "The Drag on Modern Civilization."

So much was Mrs. E. W. Cole, founder of the congress, impressed by this address that she is going to have copies of it printed and sent to every minister and priest in America.

"Dr. Bradley's address is a masterpiece of learning and presentation," she said. "It is of more value to the world than many thousand sermons. The matter contained in it is a torch by which the way of humanity will be illumined."

The address, in part, was as follows:

Not Much Advance in Folks.

"We have made tremendous advance in our discoveries and inventions, but we have not made much in folks. About the only realm of which we can think that man has not made a serious effort to master is that realm of self. Not until our day has man's attention been turned seriously to the scientific development of the race, or the improvement of the human species.

From 1890 to 1910, the insane persons living every year in the United States increased from 74,000 to 250,000. Four per cent of our population belong to this class of insane. We are spending every year in the United States thirty millions of dollars for the maintenance of hospitals and such institutions for the care of these dependents.

"What is the remedy? The first thing I would suggest is the diffusion of the knowledge of these conditions. It is a matter that must be taken up by all the schools of the state, public and private. I maintain that it is utterly stupid and inexpressibly foolish and henceforth will be criminally negligent for us to continue year after year to require the boys and girls who go into our common schools to familiarize themselves with a little of Latin, Greek, French and German, while they may be absolutely ignorant of the fundamental law of biology. We talk in high phrases about the cultural advantage of Greek roots and Latin declensions, and are neglecting the basic principles of reproduction. The old bogy of immodesty must not frighten us any longer.

"It is now time for us as intelligent men and women, to apply the fundamental laws of biology to ourselves."

Dr. A. J. Barton, of Waco, Texas, delivered a strong address on "The White Man's Task in the Uplift of the Negro." "The white man's task is not so much to provide specific solutions for the negro, but to handle the problem as a human one and the whites and blacks will each be benefited," he said.

"Politics and Social Service" was the subject taken by Dr. Paxton Hibbett, of New York city. "In order to bring fulfillment to the legitimate hope of the people for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, we must have in our laws and our body politic, to the fullest degree of citizenship which makes for protection and development of each. A civilization that has no vision must perish."

A strong warning against young girls leaving their homes for the city without friends at the destination was sounded by Dr. Orin Baker, of New York city, in his address on "Travelers' Aid Work in America." "The travelers' aid work under the present existing social order is absolutely necessary for the protection of girl travelers," he said.

Education and Social Welfare.

Dr. Henry Cope's address "On the Relation of Education to Social Welfare" was masterful in its presentation.

"No institution can be called educational which does not teach what is decent and right, what duty demands and honor requires of us," he said. "We should drop some of the frills in our school curriculum and teach the fundamental, namely the difference between right and wrong. The school is the place in which the state prepares its future citizens for citizenship, therefore we should interpret all the work of the school in terms of social service in order that the pupil may be thoroughly prepared for his life's duty when he goes out into the world."

The last meeting of the church and social service conference was held in the afternoon at the Central Congregational church, when Dr. John M. Moore, of Nashville, Tenn., delivered his address, "The South's Immigration Problem," declaring that the south has a large immigrant problem except as it shares the problem of the nation."

Dr. Warren H. Wilson delivered a strong address on "The Socialized Rural Church," in which he pointed out that the trouble was such that do not serve.

The department of public health and the department of child welfare met in united session in the First Baptist church and discussed the matter of community program in protecting and developing the efficiency of child life and also of sanitary country conditions that will eliminate physical unfitness in our citizenship. Dr. A. J. McKelway and Dr. W. S. Rankin presided.

A very able paper on "How to Enlist the Courts and Prison Authorities of the South in the Fight for Reform" was read by Phillip Weltner, of Atlanta, Ga., at the conference on courts and prisons. He said in part, that in order to reform any man committed to prison it would be necessary for court authorities to be in sympathy with the spirit of "Reformation" rather than sitting in cold judgment upon those who came under their supervision.

Mayor Confers With Chief; Says Extras Are Misleading

"I don't want a disturbance on the street of Atlanta. The town has been stirred over the Phagan tragedy, and I fear that sensational and misleading extras may cause mischief. I have requested Chief Beavers to use great caution in giving out news."

Mayor James G. Woodward made the above explanation of his visit to Chief James L. Beavers, at police headquarters, shortly after 8:30 o'clock last night. The mayor said that he made a tour of the city and found the people in all sections in a highly nervous state.

He charged that a "misleading and sensational headline" in one of the night extras had caused many to believe that Newt Lee, the negro held by the detectives, had been proven guilty.

"I am not afraid of the people of Atlanta doing anything that will bring shame on the city," the mayor said. "But this affair has stirred up the people. The town is restless, and there is an element which can easily be inflamed. I am quite sure that the police will get the truth, and that the murderers of Mary Phagan will be punished. What I want to guard against is a rowdyism. I don't want anyone to suffer needlessly, and the papers can do a lot to keep down feeling."

Mayor Woodward said that he urged Chief Beavers to caution his men to keep the crowds moving on the streets and quickly disperse gatherings where the Phagan tragedy is the topic of discussion.

"I want to appeal to the people of Atlanta not to be misled by sensational reports," he concluded.

SOUTHERN MERCHANTS - WANTED BY ATLANTA

Business Men Pledge $3,000 for Entertainment of Convention Delegates.

The Atlanta Merchants and Manufacturers' association formally invited the Southern Merchants' association to hold its annual convention here next August, at the semi-annual meeting held last night after a banquet at the Piedmont hotel.

As a guarantee of good faith, Secretary Harry T. Moore, who presided at the meeting, took up a subscription for the entertainment of the convention should it be persuaded to come here and collected nearly $3,000 in pledges.

The matter has been before the association for some time, local merchants having clamored for the convention, but no formal steps have heretofore been taken.

LOWER RATES WANTED BY NORTH CAROLINA

Raleigh, N. C., April 29.—Declaring that there is no power which he will not exercise to bring about better freight rates in North Carolina, Governor Craig this afternoon called a meeting until tomorrow the third freight rate conference between the carriers and a legislative commission pending a proposition from the railroads.

Governor Craig was besought by telegram and delegates to call an extra session of the general assembly to assert the state's sovereignty in the demand for lower rates. An adjourned meeting from April 19 had been ordered in which the carriers were to present a proposition which was to form the basis of a rate readjustment. This morning they offered a document of forty-eight pages giving reasons for declining to grant rates to North Carolina merchants proportional with Virginia. To do this, the carriers declared, "would revolutionize the rates, work irreparable injury and froce many railroads into bankruptcy."

AN INCENDIARY LIT FIRE WHICH LED TO FIREMAN'S DEATH

Augusta, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—That the fire to which the department last responded last night, when Pat Callahan's neck was broken, was of incendiary origin, appears to be an established fact.

Chief Fire Warden Joyner hurried back to Augusta immediately upon information of the accident, and started an investigation today, which developed the fact that oily waste from a nearby railroad yard has been used to start the two fires, which occurred last night.

Since this development there is some suspicion in fire department circles now that the Perkins fire in which the loss was $26,000 was also of insindary origin.

"I have no know at all, yet," says Captain Joyner, "but if I can run this thing to the ground and catch the man, I am going to bring a charge of murder against him."

Captain Joyner agrees in the opinion of Chief Reynolds that there are a few people in Augusta who are pulling false alarms and starting small fires, merely because they like to see the department run.

Merchant in Bankruptcy.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was yesterday filed with Deputy Clerk Fred Bears of the federal court, by George Washington Maffett, of Lawrenceville. The petitioner, a merchant, says his liabilities will aggregate $2,641, of which $67 represent wages due his employes, while $2,129 of the total presented are unsecured claims. The same schedule indicates the Maffett assets to be $5,400, made of $3,600 "due him on open accounts," $40 in "bills due and promissory notes," and $110 in cash on hand.

Prof. Fontaine Dead.

Charlottesville Va., April 29.—William Morris Fontaine, for thirty years head of the school of natural history and geology at the University of Virginia, died suddenly today at the home of Professor Paige, dean of the university. Professor Fontaine, a native of Louisa county, Virginia, was 77 years old and unmarried. He was distinguished in the scientific world for successful researches in fossil botany. He served in the confederate army as a first lieutenant of ordnance.

M'CLELLAND OPENS FIRE ON CHAMBERS

"Former Councilman Represented Interests of Several Contractors While He Was in Council," He Says.

Alderman John E. McClelland, author of the graft charges in Atlanta's city council, held the investigating committee yesterday afternoon, that Addine Chambers, former councilman from the fifth ward, and candidate for mayor against James G. Woodward, represented the interests of several contractors while he was in council.

Chester A. Dady, contractor for the $195,000 Peachtree and Intrenchment creek sewage disposal plant was named as one of the contractors Chambers represented. He also said that Chambers represented the Nichols Constructing company.

"It's false," declared ex-Councilman Chambers, after Alderman McClelland left the committee. "Alderman McClelland is diseased mentally and physically, and for that reason I do not want to hurt him back at him. But let any one who wants to take his place make the statement, and see how quick I'll hurl the charges back in his teeth."

Basis For His Changes.

Testimony of a highly startling nature was brought out during the hearing before the committee. Alderman McClelland said that some of the charges he brought against Alderman F. J. Spratling, James W. Maddox and J. N. Ragsdale were based on personal information. He practically admitted also that some of the charges were based on hearsay and theory.

Alderman McClelland told the committee that during the charter fight Alderman Spratling came to him and admitted that he had borrowed money from near beer dealers. Ex-Mayor Courtland Winn testified that he had heard that Spratling had borrowed money from saloonmen, and when he learned that the charges were true he decided not to appoint Spratling chairman of the police committee.

The committee was supplied with the names of Charles T. Hopkins and Ira Steiner, Lorenzo Jones and W. F. Wesley as witnesses to substantiate the McClelland charges against Spratling. Captain James W. English and officers of the Fourth National bank will be summoned by the committee to testify at Wednesday's hearing. It is said that some of the paper is still in the custody of the bank.

Alderman McClelland brought the name of ex-Councilman Chambers into the investigation while he was on the stand testifying as to the charges against Alderman James Maddox. He said that it was a notorious fact that Maddox had a contract to excavate the ground for Chester A. Dady, contractor in charge of the Peachtree and Intrenchment creek plants. Testimony showed that Alderman Maddox received $30,000 from Dady on the contract.

Winn Knew of Contracts.

"Mayor Winn knew all about the contract," Alderman McClelland testified. "Councilman Chambers represented Dady at the time."

Councilman Chambers arose and denied that either he or his partner, Colonel Dailey, represented Dady. Alderman McClelland said that he had information that Chambers represented C. M. Nichols, of the Nichols Constructing company.

Alderman McClelland said that it was well-known that Alderman Maddox championed every resolution in council authorizing the closing of streets for excavation. He said the Winecoff hotel was an instance, and said there were twenty others.

Councilman Chambers objected to testimony relating to any contract except those in which the city was a party.

Alderman Candler suggested that inasmuch as Alderman McClelland was ill he thought it would be proper to hear his testimony on each of the charges against each of the three aldermen.

Attorney Charles T. Hopkins said that the resolution authorizing the investitration was sweeping, and he thought it proper for the committee to get at evidence of any misdoings in council, whether by members or others. The committee decided to hold the hearing down to the charges against the three men under probe.

Testimony Against Ragsdale.

The only testimony offered against Alderman Ragsdale was that he was connected wit hthe firm of Lawhon & Co., and engaged indirectly in the sale of horses and mules to the city. Alderman McClelland offered vouchers to show that the city paid money to Lawhon & Co. He told the committee that a reference to Dun or Bradstreet would show that Alderman Ragsdale was a member of the firm. Chief W. B. Cummings, of the fire department, testified that Alderman Ragsdale disposed of stock to advantage for the city by selling old stock at high prices. Engineer Nym Hurt, of the construction department, said that Alderman Ragsdale saved the city money by disposing of old stock at high prices. He said the city paid no commission.

Taking the committee ack to the Spratling charge, Alderman McClelland explained that during the charter fight Alderman Spratling came to him and asked him to see Charles T. Hopkins and persuade him not to expose Alderman Maddox. Alderman McClelland said that Alderman Spratling admitted to him that he borrowed money from beer men, but he explained to the committee that he could not swear whether he mentioned the names of the men from whom he borrowed. Alderman McClelland said that he had been told that Alderman Spratling had borrowed money from Dictated to Spratling.

Paul Smith, now dead.

He charged that Councilman Chambers has dictated to Alderman Spratling how to vote in council. He said he did not like the vote on the crematory contract nor on the electric light contract.

Attorney Luther Rosser, representing Aldermen Spratling and Ragsdale, asked him if he liked the other twenty-nine who voted the same way.

"Chambers represented the crematory," Alderman McClelland said smiling. "If he didn't he was the most active."

Chester A. Dady admitted giving a contract to Alderman Maddox under competitive bids, and that he paid him something like $30,000.

Mayor Winn was called to testify as to the charges against Maddox and Spratling.

He said that his attention was called to alleged borrowing transactions Alderman Spratling was charged with. dealers, and he made an investigation. He could not recall the exact date, but believed it was between the primary and the general election of 1911. He asked James I. Lynch, one of the largest dealers of beer in Atlanta, and he admitted that he loaned Spratling money. Mayor Winn said that he could not recall a conference with Alderman Spratling several times, he called him to his law office and informed him that he could not be appointed chairman of the police committee. Mayor Winn said that Alderman Spratling made a frank admission, explaining that he was in hard times and needed the money. Mayor Winn said that he had never promised to make Spratling chairman of the committee, although he had practically made up his mind so to do.

Referring back to the Maddox charges, Mayor Winn said that on one day while he was making an inspection of the work at the Peachtree plant he saw Maddox in charge of the excavations. He asked him if he was doing work under Dady. He said that he was, and explained that he had an opinion from City Attorney James L. Mayson to the effect that his contract with Dady was not in violation of the city code. He said that Maddox afterwards offered a resolution in council prohibiting a member of the city council from taking a contract from the city.

Captain R. M. Clayton, of the construction department, testified that the Dady subcontract was the only work he knew Alderman Maddox to have in connection with city work.

C. M. Nichols, of the Nichols Constructing company, said that Alderman Maddox did a little ditching for him. He did not know of any other work he had ever done.

Assistant City Attorney Ellis, who is conducting the investigation, suggested that the next session be held at 3 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, explaining that he would try and have all the witnesses present at that time.

Beautiful Reception Is Given Mrs. Cole and Convention Guests

Mrs. E. W. Cole was the guest of honor at the reception given at the Piedmont Driving club yesterday afternoon to the visitors in attendance upon the Southern Sociological congress, of which she is the founder. The hostesses of the occasion were the members of the Georgia branch of the Woman's Department National Civic Federation of which division of Mrs. J. K. Ottley is president.

Mrs. John W. Grant was chairman of the reception committee, and acted as the official hostess assisted by Mrs. Robert J. Lowry, Mrs. Frederick Hodgson and the fifth members of the division. The reception took place in the ball room of the club, where there were tables beautifully decorated with spring flowers, and from which punch, sandwiches and bonbons were served.

Miss Marjorie Brown and Miss Esther Smith served the punch.

There was music by an orchestra, and the visitors were entertained between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock. Mrs. Cole was the recipient of many grateful assurances of what her presence meant to the success of the conference, and expressed herself as delighted with the great success every session had proven to be, and delighted with the occasion of the reception which offered the opportunity for the visitors to meet with so many of Atlanta's active women in all social works.

Mrs. Cole was beautiful and stately in a reception gown of gray voile, embroidered and trimmed in lace, and her wrap was of amethyst brocade velvet. She carried a bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR'S WORK ACCOMPLETED BY BERRY SCHOOL

Mount Berry, Ga., April 29.—The graduating exercises at the Berry school brought to a close a year of marked success. Not only has the attendance of both the Boys' and the Girls' schools exceeded that of any previous years, but in point of actual work accomplished the year has been highly satisfactory.

Practically the entire faculty and corps of officers of both schools will be retained for next year.

Yesterday's program included the gymnasium exhibit at 8:30 o'clock, the industrial and class exhibit at 10 o'clock, and the annual meeting of the board of trustees at 3 o'clock. The friends of the school are cordially invited to all the morning exercises.

Eleven young men received their diplomas, having completed the prescribed course of study. The diplomas were delivered by the president of the board of trustees, John J. Egan, of Atlanta. Other members of the board make short talks. Five members of the graduating class, and two students from the Martha Berry school gave talks and demonstrations of the practical work of the school.

Atlantans attending the commencement included the following: Mr. John J. Egan, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Orr, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Inman, Mrs. H. M Atkinson and Miss Atkinson.

Fire at Cedartown.

Cedartown, Ga., April 29.—(Special.) The plant of the Cedartown Foundry and Machine company was damaged by fire at about 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, the fire being caused by a cast which went melting there at the time. The fire department responded promptly and had a hard fight. Considerable damage had been done. The building is an old wooden structure and burned very rapidly. It is understood that the work of repairing will be done without delay.

Enlarging Cedartown Depot.

Cedartown, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The Seaboard Air Line railway have commenced the work of enlarging their passenger station in this city. The waiting-rooms are being made a great deal larger and more conveniences installed for the public.

THE PRESIDENT'S GOOD WORK.

That typhoid, smallpox and other communicable diseases did not follow upon the heels of the flood crisis in the middle west is probably due largely to the energy with which President Wilson placed in the hands of the relief workers every scientific resource at the disposal of the government. An editorial in a recent issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association pays high tribute to the president in this connection, and draws attention to him in the role of breaking precedent—more important than those for which he has received spectacular credit, in that the precedents in these cases related to life and death.

The first precedent broken was when he placed the boats and crews of the life-saving stations on Lakes Michigan and Erie at the disposal of the workers. Without their use many lives must have been lost. The second was the order to send into the afflicted district all the available officers of the public health service and the army. Such steps had been taken before in the case of quarantine, but never to prevent the outbreak of epidemics. The third and most important was the dispatching of vaccine points and typhoid serum to the threatened districts. There is no doubt that this one precaution alone was the means of averting epidemics that might have still been raging.

Of the foresight and the courage indicated in those actions, The Journal justly says:

> The nation is fortunate in having as its chief executive a man who does not fear official red tape, moss-grown precedents or the opposition of the ignorant and fanatical followers of fantastic cults, but who will calmly, fearlessly and sensibly place at the disposal of any stricken or afflicted community all the available resources of the government and of modern science for the prevention of disease and the saving of life.

Throughout his course in the flood crisis President Wilson displayed an initiative and a promptness of decision worthy of the best traditions of the office. In the cause of humanitarianism he broke old precedents and established new ones, and in every instance the wisdom of his course has been abundantly justified.

FRIEDMANN'S UNDUE HASTE.

It is to be regretted that Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann, the German physician, has been so quick to commercialize the vaccine which he claims will conquer tuberculosis. It is reported that he has sold his discovery and made arrangements to have it administered throughout America.

The remedy has not vindicated itself. Every facility has been offered Friedmann by the government to prove the soundness of his theories, but his attitude has uniformly been one of evasion and suspicion. The cases he has already clinically treated have not responded sufficiently to treatment to warrant hard-and-fast conclusions. And the doctor's not reassuring experience in Germany, his home, is well known.

No one would deny to Dr. Friedmann the profits of his labors. His haste in grasping at rewards, however, before an unbiased verdict has been rendered should warn unfortunates against too great a faith in the alleged remedy.

REFORMATORIES FOR GIRLS.

The legislators of every state should take cognizance of the resolution passed at the Southern Sociological congress in Atlanta urging the establishment of reformatories for girls. The primary purpose of the resolution was the encouragement of the movement for such an institution in Georgia. But viewing the great and neglected field throughout the country the experts in charge of that particular branch of the congress' works decided that the appeal should be section-wide.

There is little question that the army of prostitutes in this country, the problem of which is now engaging the attention of the nation, is fed to a material extent by the girl who could have been saved had timely efforts been made in that direction. It is universally agreed that in this field, as in every other feature of vice and crime, prevention is to be preferred to cure.

The sums spent for the rehabilitation of erring boys should be duplicated by appropriations for similar institutions for girls. Indeed, if it narrows to a choice, the potential wives and mothers of the nation should be given the preference in all reformative work.

GIVE BURLESON TIME.

The Wall Street Journal voices a general complaint when in referring to the inefficiency still existing in the postoffice department it says:

> It is full time for Postmaster General Burleson to cut out some dangerous deadwood from the postoffice department, and he cannot begin too soon, strike too high, or use too sharp an ax. In the sixteen years of republican politics in that department there has grown up a bureau which has come to believe that it exists for its own advantage, and not for the service of the public. It thinks itself independent alike of any administration or of the citizens of the United States, who pay the bill.

Our contemporary declares that under existing regulations newspapers the country over are delivered anywhere from two to five days late. Had it inquired closely into conditions in the southern postal division it would have discovered that delay and awkward routing characterizes not only newspapers, but all classes of mail. The Journal maintains that a clique in the department is responsible for these shortcomings, and says that "Postmaster General Hitchcock was so busy pulling an imaginary surplus out of the blue sky that he allowed this intolerable condition to grow up, even if he did not encourage it in return for favors received." So sodden with demoralization and inefficiency was the entire department under Hitchcock that there is no question in the minds of those familiar with the situation that he actually abetted the condition of which complaint is made. His parsimony was displayed in the southern and other divisions in the curtailing of forces and the shortening everywhere of facilities.

It is unjust to Postmaster General Burleson to criticise him for the present state of the service. He is now simply suffering for the sins of Hitchcock, the consequences of which he has inherited. Mr. Burleson has, moreover, demonstrated that he has a thorough grip on affairs, and that slowly, but exhaustively, he is going into every detail with the determination to apply correction from top to bottom. Some time will be required to readjust the situation in so far-reaching a department, especially where for years petty despotism and mismanagement have ruled.

The postmaster general may know that he has with him the support of the entire country in steps toward reform. The postoffice department touches the people more intimately than any other branch of the federal service. It should as nearly approximate perfection as money and concentrated skill will devise.

YUAN AND DIAZ.

Unhappy Mexico needs a Yuan Shi Kai. That conviction inevitably occurs to the man who studies conditions in the two countries at the other side of the world from each other. The great Chinaman, born of the common people, has thus far overmastered all divergencies in the vast empire and brought its people to the stage where they are about to receive world recognition as a republic. He has done for China what Porfirio Diaz did nearly thirty years ago for Mexico, except that Yuan has not as yet resorted to bloodshed. In that respect, as in others, he is greater than the Mexican, though their careers touch at enough points of contact to make a contrast interesting. Diaz used a refined form of tyranny, and so has Yuan; but the former found himself a "statesman out of a job" because he used no other tool than tyranny.

At the present writing, the constitution of popular government in the ancient empire is at a deadlock over the question of the foreign loan just signed by the so-called "five-power group." The agreement has been perfected as between Yuan and the powers, without regard to the newly-elected parliament, which disapproves some of its terms. Yuan holds that he has the power to conclude the loan and the dominant Kwo Ming Tang party dissents and would unseat him, if it dared. The trouble with any procedure of this nature is that Yuan absolutely controls the army, is an admirable soldier himself, an adroit politician and a genius at diplomacy. It is also in evidence that he has the thorough support of as many of the Chinese people as are capable of comprehending the dramatic rush of events.

Evidently this great Chinaman has decided that for the salvation of his country it is needful to use coercion for at least a time in dealing with the warring elements. In taking that position he is placing himself on probation before the world, but those who have followed the development of his career and know how genuinely he is in sympathy with popular government will be inclined to credit him at least with good intentions.

Within us and without us!
All life is love, my dear!
Love in the wild winds blowing,
Love in the dark and light,

Love in the stellar spaces
Where stars and planets roam,
And love in children's faces
That have the dreams of Home.
Love where the birds are singing
In valleys dim and deep,
And may that love be bringing
Our hearts to Home and sleep.

BOOST

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

There are a great many people on this earth that we don't need and that we wish we could just easily push off. Knockers, for instance. There is a difference between a Knocker and a Kicker. Sometimes people kick to a good purpose. But a Knocker is a Knocker—a Pest and a Destroyer. Here is the way to push the Knockers into Oblivion—

Boost!

Boost your Town. Boost your Business. Boost your Friends. Boost your Ideas. Boost everything that helps You. Be a Booster and you can't help but be a Builder.

Boost!

The man who Boosts is a Leader. He is always followed by a crowd. His philosophy at once becomes contagious. And he leaves a trail of Boosters in his path. While those who follow him cut his name into Bronze.

Boost!

When you don't know what else to do—Boost. It makes little odds what you Boost so long as you Boost something. Once you form the habit you need have no fear for lack of things to Boost. They will spring up from every direction.

Boost!

If you want to be happy—Boost. If you want to get higher in the world—Boost. The Busiest and Wisest men that live will be glad to listen to you if you are a Booster. Learn the knack of Boosting. It's a great Knack—more important than any "Pull," or "Influence"—and it's bigger than Money.

Gossip Caught in Corridors Of the National Capitol

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—If democratic tariff revision proves everything that is hoped for it, Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, will be the biggest asset of the democratic party in the presidential campaign of 1916.

Already his colleagues are booming him for the presidency. It is the popular thing right now to toast Mr. Underwood. By his skill in tariff matters, his diplomacy, suavity and capacity for leadership he has paved the way for the passage of the tariff bill in the house. Next it must take its chances in the senate.

John Corrigan, Jr.

Mr. Underwood's further advancement in the political arena will depend on the outcome of the tariff legislation which will bear his name. If that proves a failure, his party will go out and he will be deposed. But nobody on the democratic side now apprehends anything of that sort.

Tribute to Underwood.

Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania, and chairman of the democratic caucus of the house, who was one of President Wilson's chief lieutenants in the fight for the democratic nomination, in his speech on the tariff bill, said:

"I want to accept this opportunity to put into The Record, on behalf of his democratic colleagues on the committee on ways and means and on behalf of his party associates on this floor, a grateful acknowledgement of the large debt which our party and our country owe to the distinguished chairman of the ways and means committee.

"His name will go down in the history of the republic along with those of other great legislators of past days, enduringly associated and linked with a great revenue measure. He will take his place, when this law goes upon the statute books, among the immortals of this republic.

"His party can never pay to him the debt which it owes—unless—perhaps I should say until—it rewards him with the honor of the only office in the republic which is larger in power and responsibility than that which he now occupies."

Cheers greeted these remarks of the Pennsylvania congressman, many republicans joining in the applause.

Mr. Palmer was followed by Representative John W. Langley, republican, of Kentucky. Mr. Langley spoke as a partisan, but he could not refrain, he said, from saying a pleasant word for Mr. Underwood. He mentioned that he was for Clark for the democratic nomination last fall. "I do not know," said Mr. Langley, "whether I shall be for Clark's nomination the next time or not, but one thing is certain, and that is that if the popularity of the gentleman from Alabama continues to grow in this country as a result of his authorship of this bill as it is growing across the seas, where they are looking with longing eyes at our rich markets which this bill will open to them, then the gentleman's political fortunes are assured and the goal of his ambition certain of attainment. Nothing can stop him from going into the white house. Even fusion between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan and Mr. Clark and Mr. La Follette and Mr. Roosevelt, with the socialist vote thrown in, would be futile. He would distance the bunch."

That Harmony Dinner.

The Bryan-Clark harmony dinner is still attracting a good deal of attention. If any one attempts to convince you that it was a pleasant little feast with much cordiality on each side, and that the two democratic statesmen are now as devoted as Damon and Pythias, lead him aside and gently tell him that isn't according to nature.

Champ Clark believes as firmly as he ever believed anything in his life that Bryan kept him from winning the nomination at Baltimore.

Had Bryan not taken the floor against him at the time he did, Clark believes he would be in the white house today.

While there are some who think the speaker is correct in this view, many cold-blooded analysts insist that Clark had reached the zenith of his strength before Bryan made his announcement. Others say that even if Clark had increased his vote over that received on the ballot preceding Bryan's change to Wilson and won the nomination, he would never have been elected. However, the incident broke up a close friendship that had long existed between Mr. Bryan and the speaker.

In a laudable effort to patch up a breach that is beyond remedy, friends of both these democratic statesmen planned to bring them together at a dinner. Theodore Bell, of California, essayed the role of pacificator, and Ira E. Bennett, chief editorial writer of The Washington Post, was host.

Judge Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia, who was formerly parliamentary clerk of Speaker Clark, was one of the guests.

The secretary of state submitted a statement denying any intention upon his part of reflecting upon the speaker personally or bringing into question his political integrity. Mr. Clark issued one also, in substance, saying that Mr. Bryan did not have the power—no other man had the power—of undoing the damage he sustained at the hands of the Nebraskan at Baltimore—but—for the sake of harmony, etc.

Funny as a Crutch.

So they shook hands around the festive board and everybody took a seat. The conversation took on about as cheerful a turn as the meeting of the creditors of a defunct bank when they are informed that they may get 10 cents on the dollar. Mr. Clark was urged to tell a funny story, and consented to do so—it was probably as humorous as a broken leg, but every one present made a heroic effort to burst into unrestrained and mirthful laughter. From all accounts setting up with a corpse would undoubtedly have come under the head of pleasure in comparison to that dinner. The speaker thawed out and was about as warm and cordial to everybody as a piece of gas pipe at the North Pole, and everybody present was like the man who goes to get a tooth pulled, "mighty glad when it was over."

The current opinion is that the reconciliation between the secretary of state and the speaker of the house cannot be handed down to posterity as one of the great events of the administration.

Odds could be had against the possibility of Bryan and Clark doing the Damon and Pythias act for the next four years. The net result of Mr. Bell's purely altruistic endeavors are that in the future the speaker will probably say "How do you do, Mr. Secretary," in a cold-and-distant-and-"how-I-would-like-to-soak-you" tone of voice and get a response grom the secretary in the same friendly and sincere vein, on occasion when they are thrown together.

The truth of the matter is, that try as he may, the speaker can never fully forgive Mr. Bryan, and believing as he does, that Mr. Bryan is alone responsible for the defeat of his life's ambition it would indeed be remarkable if he did. On his part Mr. Bryan has little to forgive the speaker for. Clark was always devoted and faithful to The Commoner in all his campaigns, and until Mr. Bryan struck him "below the belt" in Baltimore never had aught but praise for the Peerless One.

The secretary of state is urging world-wide peace and he may be able to bring about this most happy consummation in the end, but the disarmament between himself and the speaker will always be a mere matter of form and will never reach that cordial and friendly stage where they will slap each other on the back and say, "Hello, Champ," and "Hello Bill," unless the slapping is done with a pile driver.

STATE PUBLICATION OF SCHOOL BOOKS

Editor Constitution: In reference to my proposed bill to publish, or have published, by competitive bids the books taught in the public schools of Georgia, let me say that I have the text-books used in Ontario, Canada, and in that province all schools books are published by competitive bids. The minister of education assisted by an experienced school teacher prepares the texts to be used in the school books, and then they are printed by competitive bids. We have more school children in Georgia than they have in Ontario; in fact, we have nearly twice as many. Now, what is the result obtained in Ontario? I have before me the primer as taught there, and in binding, printing and general make-up, it is much superior to our primer, especially as to type, as the type is very large and clear. What is the price the children in Ontario pay for this primer? Four cents. Their first reader, bound, printed and general appearance better with colored plates, and the children buy it there at 6 cents. Their amithmetic is a wonderful improvement upon the kind used in the public schools here in printing and binding, and what is the price? Ten cents. And so on through the entire list of books. They average in cost as compared to what we are paying in Georgia about 150 per cent less than we are now paying.

Now, every lawyer knows that up to the sixty-fifth Georgia supreme court reports, the cost was $1 per volume, and from then on up until now, when we have about 140 volumes, the cost has been from $1.50 to $2. What caused the reduction? The state of Georgia assumed the copyright, and had them printed by competitive bids. It is so now with the reports of the court of appeals and form books and the acts of the legislature and others. All of these books are printed and furnished to the lawyers in Georgia at cost, with a little joker of 10 per cent added. We are now and have been engaged in having Colonial Records edited and printed and sold at cost, and no one seriously objects to it. It is not competitively little used, except as a most valuable record, but when it comes to the editing of a spelling or reading book for the children in Georgia, to be furnished them at a discount of over 100 per cent, we are told that it cannot be done.

Why can't we do it? We can do anything they do in Ontario, Canada. It is dead easy here. Look around and see why any Georgian should object to furnishing the poor children in Georgia schools books at one-fourth the price they are now paying and having in them the writing of Georgia people, and you have the answer to the problem here.

WORCESTER, MASS.

By GEORGE FITCH
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Worcester, which is pronounced by substituting an "o" for the first "r" and cutting out the "ce," is a typical and modern New England town, with pre-revolution churches in one block and a "little Italy" around the corner. It has 150,000 people, over half of whom can trace themselves or ancestors back to the Stills in Ireland.

Worcester's American colony takes great pride in the city. It has 1,100 acres of parks, and Quinsigmond lake, 4 miles long. Ability to pronounce this name with good form and refraining from the use of the word "cute" makes one a member of the American Antiquarian society, which has a fine museum in Worcester.

The prides of Worcester also include its factories, museums and Yankees. The city has so many factories that when the noon whistles start to work it sounds like the combined navies of the world blowing for a draw-bridge. Most of the envelopes in the country, and a fair share of the shoes and wire, are made in Worcester.

This city is also the original home of the genuine Yankee. Almost everything worth inventing was originally invented in Worcester, including the sewing machine, the cotton gin, the carpet loom, the modern loom and the modern plow. The distinguished Worcester sauce, however, was invented in Worcester's godparent, Worcester, England.

When Worcester isn't busy inventing and manufacturing, it is admiring art in its great gallery, reading books in its library of 150,000 volumes or setting up statues to its great men, which statues infest the city in great profusion. Worcester was founded in 1674, but was not taken in earnest until the Boston and Albany railroad ran through it, and its citizens began congesting the patent office.

"One of the few institutions of learning which has succeeded without a college yell."

Worcester has a new railroad station, half a dozen assorted colleges, a trolley line to Boston, and Clark university, one of the few American institutions of learning which has succeeded without a college yell.

STRAINING AMERICA'S HISTORIC FRIENDSHIP WITH THE JAPANESE

By HAMILTON HOLT,
Managing Editor of The Independent.

On March 21, 1854, Commodore Perry, in behalf of the United States, signed with Japan a treaty of commerce and friendship which opened Japan to the world and inaugurated the most remarkable political and social revolution known to history. The first sentence of that treaty reads as follows:

> "There shall be perfect, permanent and universal peace and a sincere and cordial amity between the United States of America on the one part and the Empire of Japan on the other, and between their people respectively without exception of persons and places."

From that day to this Japan has lived up to the letter and spirit of that treaty. She has never let an opportunity pass to express her gratitude and to show her friendly feelings to the United States. She has sent her brightest young men to be trained in our universities and technical schools. She has modeled her educational system after ours. She has employed many Americans within the empire as advisers, teachers and administrators. Even at this moment an American citizen, Mr. Denison, is serving as chief adviser of the foreign office.

The United States had an equally unblemished record for cordiality to Japan until the close of the Russo-Japanese war. Then the change began.

I do not wish to discuss the question as to whether the Bradford bill being considered by the California legislature contravenes our treaty with Japan or not. If it does, as seems almost certain, it will, of course, be nullified by the courts. But as I have recently visited Japan and have had opportunities to learn more than most of my countrymen of the real feelings of the Japanese toward us, I consider it something of a duty to speak plainly now. Up to the end of the Russo-Japanese war the Japanese regarded us with a feeling almost akin to reverence. There existed in Japan a very strong sentiment—a sentiment entirely separate from commerce—connected with the name of America. Even today the Japanese, next to the preservation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, desire our commerce and friendship. They will do anything we ask of them, provided they can do it with dignity. The evidence is overwhelming to anyone seeking the truth. Two years ago, for instance, when Japan learned that we were preparing to negotiate an unlimited arbitration treaty with Great Britain, she voluntarily consented to a modification of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, so that in case Japan and the United States were at war England would not have to choose between breaking her alliance with Japan or her peace treaty with us. Surely Japan would never have renounced the right to call on England for aid if she had reason to expect any further trouble with us.

It must be remembered, however, that there are forces in Japan that are working against this historic friendship, just as there are in this country. Without attempting to put them in the order of their importance they would include, first, the ignorance and incompetence and anti-Japanese bias of many of the officials we send to the Far East; second, the exceeding jealousy of nations like England and Germany over our increasing trade in Japan. The best informed student of Japan I met abroad told me that "nine-tenths of the false rumors that have tended to damage the standing of American traders in the Far East can be traced directly to rivals in trade." third, the journals and foreign correspondents in Japan and China who assume for one reason or another an anti-American attitude. All foreign papers published in English in Japan, with the exception of The Times, of Tokio, seem to be disinclined to print matter which might tend to increase the good relations between Japan and America; fourth, the agents of ordinance manufacturers and ship builders. I am told that these agents are many in number and plentifully supplied with "expense" money and "entertainment funds." It is a significant fact that none of these agents seem to preach anything but the antagonism of America to Japan, and, finally, the lack of manners of Americans who live and travel in Japan.

But these and similar causes that promote discussion would have but little effect in Japan except for two things—American interference in Asiatic politics and the brutal discrimination against the Japanese in California.

In regard to the immigration question, Japan does not object to having California pass anti-alien bills, provided they apply equally to all nations and do not discriminate against her. What she cannot understand, and what she will not tolerate without intense resentment, is to have her highly intelligent, adaptable, industrious, cleanly, sober, peaceable and efficient citizens excluded simply because they have yellow skins, while the illiterate, quarrelsome and unwashed emigrants from Europe are welcomed with open arms.

Japan cannot understand how a mere 30,000 of her citizens, who have the highest standard of literacy of any nation on the Pacific slope, and who own but 17,000 acres of land, and whose numbers are decreasing every year, can be a menace to a population of 2,377,000 souls living in over one hundred million acres of territory. Indeed, in 1911 the labor commissioner of California, Mr. Mackenzie, submitted an official report on these Japanese in that state in which he concluded that the Japanese should be encouraged to come, as they would be in many respects they are more desirable workers than the white men, and because there is not enough available white labor to do the work that is crying to be done.

Now, of course, there will be no war between Japan and the United States. Such a contingency is well nigh unthinkable. But if California persists in excluding the Japanese from our shores, all our foreign merchants and missionaries in Japan might just as well pack up and come home. There will be nothing for them to do hereafter in the Land of the Rising Sun.

Is it right, therefore, that we should lose the friendship of 50,000,000 long-forbearing, friendly but proud and sensitive people, just because a selfish and sinister element of the great state of California has for the moment got in the saddle and proposes to thwart the will of the entire American people to gratify its flimsy whim of a reckless race prejudice. The question is not primarily political, but moral. It is the Golden Rule.

MURDER ANALYZED BY DR. M'KELWAY

"If Children of Such Tender Years Were Not Forced to Work, Mary Phagan Might Be Living," He Says.

"If social conditions in Atlanta were of the best—if conditions in factories were of the best; and, lastly, if children of such tender years were not forced to work, little Mary Phagan would probably never have been murdered," declared Dr. A. J. McKelway, president pro tem. of the Southern Sociological congress, speaking at the final meeting held in Wesley Memorial church last night.

"Let us take this murder and analyze it. A little child of tender years is forced to work. Think of the heavy toll which she undergoes and the physical conditions under which she labors.

"Why is it that such is allowed in our fair land? The sociological congress must do its share of enlightenment. It has shown these evils to the world."

Atlanta Spirit Lauded.

But the Atlanta Spirit came in for its share of commendation at the finals of the congress, and the newspapers were lauded by the out-of-town delegates for the generous editorial support given the convention.

A gala reception at the Piedmont Driving club in the evening, followed by a rousing night session at Wesley Memorial church, brought to a close the great Southern Sological congress which adjourned last night.

The interest in social reform which the congress has aroused was discussed at the final session of the conference by thirty-two delegates from thirty-two states, and the record showed 918 paid registrations to the Southern Sological congress.

A closing feature of the conference was a banquet tendered all the negro delegates by the Atlanta delegation. There were sixty-five out-of-town negro delegates, and these, with the Atlanta contingent, were entertained in Odd Fellows hall.

AIDED HURT GIRL AND IN FEW HOURS MET TRAGIC DEATH

Augusta, Ga., April 29.—While pushing a baby carriage containing her 5-months-old half sister across Broad street at the intersection of Marbury, late yesterday afternoon, Miss Ernestine Bady, aged 19, was run down by an automobile and probably fatally injured. The automobile was driven by Mrs. W. K. Hegler.

Miss Bady sustained two fractures of the skull and her right arm was crushed. Though the carriage was demolished, the baby escaped uninjured.

Mrs. Hegler and a number of lady friends were in the auto, and in an effort to avoid running over a boy on a bicycle, ran the car into Miss Bady and her little sister. The carriage was demolished, but the baby, beyond a few slight bruises, was not hurt. Miss Bady, however, was knocked down and run over, and has been unconscious ever since the accident.

There was great excitement at the time of the accident as all of the ladies in the automobile fainted. Fireman Patrick Callahan, who, a few hours later met a tragic death when he fell from a fire truck, was one of the first to reach Miss Bady, and he carried her into a drug store where she was cared for until the ambulance could arrive. The blood of the gori was on the clothing of the fire-

ATHENS MAN IS HEAD OF THE LAUNDERERS

Clare D. Heidler Elected President of Carolina and Georgia Association.

The election of officers for the ensuing year yesterday afternoon ended the business session of the seventh annual convention of the Launderers' Association of the Carolina and Georgia, being held at the Piedmont hotel. Clare D. Heidler, of Athens, Ga., was elected president; J. A. Nichols, of Asheville, N. C., vice president; H. E. Raines, of Charleston, S. C., second vice president, and H. A. Smith, of Florence, S. C., secretary and treasurer.

It was decided immediately before the election that the convention next year should be held in Charleston, S. C.

Today will be given over entirely to social events. A barbecue will be given at the Cold Springs, Cue club this morning. Delegates will inspect different Atlanta laundries during the afternoon.

President F. D. Lethco, of Charlotte, N. C., called the meeting to order at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, delivered the opening prayer, and Mayor J. G. Woodward welcomed the convention in behalf of the city. He was responded to by A. W. Solomon, of Savannah, and E. B. Stanley, of Cincinnati.

"Trade Organization and Co-operation" was the subject of an interesting address made by W. W. Orr, of the George Muse Clothing company, Dallas, Tex., president of the Launderymen's National association, closed the morning session with a brief address.

L. J. Spencer, of Crane & Co., addressed the convention in the afternoon on "Steam Conservation in the Laundry." J. A. Nichols spoke on the question, "Is the Parcel Post of Benefit to the Laundry?"

"Textiles and Adulterations" was the subject of the final address, made by William M. Booth, of Syracuse, N. Y.

In the afternoon the families of attending delegates went for an automobile ride through the city.

AMOROUS COUSIN KILLED BY ENRAGED HUSBAND

Joseph Goff Sees Wife Improperly Approached, Bursts Into Room and Kills Her Insulter.

Wilmington, N. C., April 29.—(Special.)—After chatting and drinking together pleasantly until midnight with his cousin, Claude Goff, his guest at his farm home in Greene county, this state, Joseph Goff bade his kinsman good night and went to the rear of the house to get something to eat.

Glancing through a window he saw Claude Goff making improper advances towards his wife, who was up with a sick baby for the night. The husband returned to the room and ordered the relative from the house, but the latter angrily questioned the right of the husband to interfere and started to attack him, whereupon Goff seized a shotgun and killed him.

Goff then went for a physician for his cousin and the sheriff of the county, to whom he surrendered, being later admitted to nominal bond by a coroner's jury of inquest.

ANOTHER REALTY SUIT FILED BY MRS. GUNBY

Another suit in connection with the efforts of Mrs. Eleanor Howell Gunby, of Tampa, Fla., to gain possession of valuable Atlanta real estate, which she claims was entailed to her from her mother's family, was filed yesterday in superior court under the form of a $10,000 damage suit, of "John Doe v. Richard Roe."

The property referred to is 24x30 feet on the west side of South Broad street, 79 feet south of West Hunter, and is part of the central real estate held by the heirs of the late James L. Dickey. Taking the old form of procedure, the petition sets out that on July 3, 1912, Mrs. Gunby demised to John Doe, the property mentioned, and on the next day Richard Roe ejected him and that the damages amount to $10,000.

Following the petition comes a formal notice from Richard Roe to the owners and tenants of the place to appear and defend the action of Richard Roe, acting as casual ejector.

The suit which was filed by Attorneys Dorsey, Brewster, Howell and Heyman, and John K. McDonald, Jr., mentions the owners as Mrs. Gertrude Joseph Wilkey, J. L. Dickey, Jr., Ervin J. Dickey and Eugene Dickey, as executors of the estate of the late James L. Dickey, while the tenants named are the Fidelity Fruit and Produce company and the E. E. M. Smoking Tobacco Catarrh Cure Manufacturing company.

GANTT TURNED OVER TO SHERIFF OF FULTON

After a hearing before Judge George L. Bell, of the superior court, in which his attorney, George F. Gober, gave a scathing denouncement of the police and detective department for what he termed the "grilling system," J. M. Gantt, held on a warrant, charging the murder of Mary Phagan, was taken from the police and turned over to the sheriff to be held in the Tower.

Judge Gober stated that he would arrange for a hearing early today before Justice F. M. Powers, before whom the original warrant was sworn out. The coroner's inquest is set for 9 o'clock, and Judge Gober declared that if possible, he would have a hearing on the warrant before that time, and if not, he would have it immediately after that.

MAN ROUGHLY USED BY ANGRY ELEPHANT

Oakland, Cal., April 29.—An elephant reached with his trunk beneath a circus tent early this morning, grasped G. J. Gardiner, of Jacksonville, Fla., a circus employee, dragged him into the tent and hurled him through the canvas walls. Gardiner's wrist was broken, a number of ribs fractured and he was otherwise seriously injured.

LITTLE COTTON KILLED BY RECENT COLD SNAP

Reports From All Parts of State Indicate, However, That Crop Will Probably Be Backward.

Reports received by The Constitution from all parts of the state indicate that while in certain sections the recent cold snap did considerable damage to the cotton crop, as a general thing, replanting will not be necessary, the only effect of the cold weather being to make the crop rather late in maturing.

George W. Truitt, of LaGrange, one of the largest cotton growers of the state, wired The Constitution Tuesday as follows:

"All cotton that was up Sunday is dead, and all the seed that is in the ground is rotten. This will be the latest crop we have had in years."

The reports received from the other sections of the state, however, do not indicate that the bad condition of the crop in Troup county, as told in Mr. Truitt's telegram, are anything like general over the state. The elimination of the cold, with the scarcity of rain since the crop was planted, has made it very slow in coming up.

The reports from the various cotton-growing sections of the state are as follows:

Sumter Crop Is Bad.

Americus, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The cotton crop conditions in Sumter are far from favorable. About a third of the crop that was up three weeks ago was killed by cold, and replanting was necessary. Much of the replanted crop has likewise been killed by cold this week, and the stands are regarded as exceedingly poor and unpromising.

Farmers find great difficulty in securing seed for replanting. The small portion of the crop now growing is being worked with the hope of saving it. Conditions generally speaking are exceedingly discouraging, and altogether unpromising. Rain is very greatly needed. There has been none here in three weeks.

Some Replanting Necessary.

Sandersville, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The cotton crop that is up has been damaged by cold, but not killed. A good deal that has been planted has not come up. The ground is cold, and seed will not germinate unless conditions speedily change. Rain is needed, as only light showers have fallen during the week.

It may become necessary to replant a considerable percentage of the crop. Some farmers are already planting.

No Damage in Floyd.

Rome, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The cotton crop in Floyd county and vicinity has not been injured by the cold weather at all. The minimum temperature was 38 degrees and the cold snap was not of sufficient duration to do damages, as temperature rose today.

No harm was done to other vegetation.

Slight Damage in Walton.

Monroe, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—Owing to the fact that very little cotton has yet come up in Walton county, the cold snap appears to have done slight damage here and with good season henceforward, Walton may reasonably expect a good crop this fall.

Many farmers at least, have stand of corn and a number are planning to plough up the seed planted and plant again.

Cobb Cotton Not Up.

Marietta, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The planting of cotton in Cobb is about half done. Practically none of the seed has germinated and the present cold will do no harm unless it continues for several days.

Planting is progressing this week well, the ground being in good condition for plawing.

Five Per Cent Damage Done.

Macon, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The cold snap will have very little effect on the cotton in this portion of the state for the reason that very little of the staple has come up out of the ground yet. Most of the planters have delayed putting in their crop until May 1.

That portion of the cotton that has come up, however, is said to have been damaged probably five per cent. Many of the farmers in Macon today stated they make it a practice never to plant their cotton before May 1.

Cobb Crop Hurt But Little.

Athens, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—Cotton has been hurt slightly by the cold weather in this part of the state. Only one-third of the crop in this and adjoining counties had been planted before the cold rain of Saturday arrived. Early planted cotton, which is up, was hurt, the leaves crisping and some blight appearing.

The slight fall of rain since the cold spell came, however, was not enough to hurt badly and the dry conditions saved the plants from being killed outright.

From the opinion of Dr. DeLoach, cotton expert at the state college, and farmers and buyers here the cold so far had damaged the crop yield here but little.

Heavy Damage in Laurens.

Dublin, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The cold weather for past few days has killed a good portion of the cotton that is up in Laurens, which will have to be replanted. The portion not killed is badly injured.

Only about 40 per cent of the crop is planted in Laurens and of this about 25 per cent is up. On account of this only a small proportion of the entire crop will have to be replanted because of the cold.

No Damage in Bartow.

Cartersville, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—Cold weather that has prevailed in this county during the past week has done no appreciable damage to cotton crop because of the fact that but few farmers have planted seed since the middle of April.

Wet weather during the fall and winter caused planters to get behind in preparing the ground and but little of this year's crop is in the ground.

Bartow county produces normally about 20,000 bales and conditions now point to a normal crop. Much work has been accomplished since the weather opened and the delay in preparing ground is about over.

Corn that has been planted is feared for, as the cold earth is expected to rot the grain before it comes up.

Sunday School Celebration.

Senoia, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The program committee is making elaborate preparations for the annual Sunday school celebrations of Spalding county, which is to be held at Mount Zion campground on the fire tStaurday in May. Every Sunday school in the county is expected to send a delegation and take part in the exercises of the day. Rev. Thomas M. Elliott, of Griffin, has been chosen speaker of the day.

The local chapter of the Eastern Star tendered an informal reception tonight to the visiting ladies and Masons at the Dempsy hotel. Several impromptu addresses were made.

A banquet will be served tomorrow night at the Young Men's Christian association building by the local chapter for the visitors, and Grand Master Colding will be toastmaster.

Grand Chapter Meets Today.

The one hundred and twentieth annual conclave of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons, will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The degree work will be put on by Mount Zion chapter, No. 16, of Atlanta, and Georgia chapter, No. 3, of Savannah. A large class will be put through.

The first session of the Eastern Star will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, Miss Tallulah R. Atkins, of Cordele, worthy grand matron, presiding. Other sessions will be held during the day and on Thursday.

FEAR OF LOW TARIFF CAUSES SUSPENSION

Woonsocket, R. I., April 29.—Fear of the effect of proposed tariff changes is given by officials of the Nasonville Woolen Mills, at Nasonville, for voluntary receivership proceedings which were begun today. The mills manufacture worsted goods and employ 125 hands.

Augustin H. Eddy president of the company, made the following statement:

"On account of the proposed tariff changes we fear that the business cannot be run with any profitable results, and a petition for dissolution has been filed. At the beginning of the present year we had a surplus of $63,807. How much of that will remain to be divided depends entirely on the success of the liquidation."

Breckingridge Takes Oath.

Washington, April 29.—Henry S. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, today took the oath of office and entered upon his duties as assistant secretary of war, succeeding General Robert Shaw Oliver.

LAND WORTH MILLIONS WON BY GOVERNMENT

Southern Pacific Ordered to Return Property Valued at $60,000,000 to U. S.

Portland, Ore., April 29.—Land stipulated to be worth $30,000,000 and estimated by experts to have a value of $40,000,000 to $60,000,000, today was ordered taken from the Southern Pacific Railroad company and returned to the federal government by Judge C. E. Wolverton in the United States district court.

The Oregon-California land grant case, involving more than 2,500,000 acres, will be carried to the circuit court of appeals, sitting at San Francisco, and later to the United States supreme court for final adjudication.

The case was submitted today without argument after an agreement of counsel out of court.

This case was instituted in 1908. Early in the history of the case, A. W. Lafferty filed about sixty private suits for men induced to locate on the lands. The main case, demanding forfeiture of 2,300,000 acres remaining unsold, then was filed.

In the decree authorized today, the Lafferty and all other intervening cases were ordered dismissed and the government's main contention for forfeiture was declared the final verdict of the lower court.

A total of 820,000 acres of the land has been sold, some of it as high as $40 an acre.

In regard to the Union Trust company's intervention, for which J. M. Gearin appeared today, the court ruled that the trust company, owning $17,000,000 of mortgage bonds on the lands and property of the Oregon and California system, had not the right to oppose the plea of an innocent purchaser.

PLANNING TO IMPROVE CONDITION OF FARMER

Washington, April 29.—Plans for the operation of the "rural organiastion service," a new branch of the department of agriculture, which is to take up the question of better marketing, social welfare and other problems connected with the improvement of the farmers' financial, physical and social life, were discussed today at a department conference.

Secretary Houston called into consultation Assistant Secretary Galloway, Dr. Thomas N. Carver, of Harvard university, who has been chosen to direct the new bureau; Senator Hoke Smith, Representatives Lewis of Maryland, Rubey of Missouri, and Kettner of California; Dr. Wallace Buttrick of New York, representative of the general education board, which is to work in cooperation with the department of agriculture in aiding the New movement; G. Harold Powell of California, and a number of the department's specialists in marketing problems.

Dr. Carver spoke at length of the broad problems which the new bureau will have to solve. He declared himself in favor of the "extensive" as against the "peut-up" system of farming. The former, he said, is how the Anglo-Saxon system, while the latter was the Chinese method, although practiced also in Belgium, where a large population sustained itself on a comparatively small area.

Miss Helen Payne Weds Mr. Chas. T. Hopkins, Jr.

The marriage of Miss Helen Payne and Mr. Charles Hopkins, Jr., was a beautiful event of last night, taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, on Peachtree street.

Owing to the recent illness of the bride, the wedding company was limited to the two families and twenty close friends of the bride and groom.

Rt. Rev. John E. Gunn, bishop of Natchez, performed the ceremony, and Bishop Keeley, of Savannah, was a distinguished guest. The bride's sister, Mrs. Alexander Smith, Jr., was her only attendant and Mr. Frank Adair was man. Miss Elolse Robinson and Miss Katherine Dickey, intimate little girl friends of the bride, held the ribbons of tulle and smilax which formed an aisle from the stairway through the hall for the entrance of the bride to the library. The library arch was hung with portiers of smilax drawn back by white tulle bows, in which were caught by clusters of Easter lilies.

The Wedding Picture.

The ceremony took place before an improvised altar set in the midst of palms and smilax, which made a wall of foliage, and shining softly against the green was the light of many candles in brass candelabra. White satin prie-dieux were hung with smilax, and over the wedding group was an arch of pink hydrangeas.

Palms were massed effectively in the spacious reception hall, and the gallery, where the musicians were stationed, was hung with smilax. On the stairway at intervals were clusters of Easter lilies with festoons between the clusters of white satin ribbon and asparagus fern, and at the landing was a large basket of Easter lilies.

The Bride's Costume.

The bride entering the library with her father, was the idealization of girlish bridal beauty. Her gown, fashioned on the simplest and most graceful lines, was of white satin charmeuse and chiffon, with V-neck and long sleeves. The court train of satin charmeuse was garlanded with a vine of lace leaves, the garlands caught with crystals, and at the bottom of the train was a spreading bowknot of the lace leaves caught with a cluster of orange blossoms. The point lace veil draped from the bride's soft, dark hair, which had been dressed high on her prettily poised head, was the veil her mother and sister wore at their weddings, and her pearls, which were the wedding gift of her grandfather to her grandmother, had also been worn by grandmother, mother and sister. Her bouquet was of valley lilies and gardenias.

Mrs. Alex Smith, Jr., was charming in a cream net and lace gown over flesh-colored charmeuse. It was made with wired lace collar in ruche effect in the back, which tapered into a V-neck in front, and the sash was of rose flowered chiffon. Her bouquet was of shaded pink sweet peas.

Mrs. Payne was gowned in flesh colored brocade charmeuse, the corsage trimmed with rhinestone bands and cream lace, and her flowers were Killarney roses.

Mrs. Charles T. Hopkins, the groom's mother, wore black chiffon, the corsage of princess lace veiled with the chiffon, and a finish in jet. Miss Nancy Hopkins wore pink satin charmeuse and lace.

The Wedding Supper.

The bride's table was set in the dining-room, and its decoration was in pink roses and valley lilies. A tall silver vase of roses and lillies in the center rose out of a mound of the flowers, and four smaller silver vases rose out of similar mounds of the pink and white bloom. The silver candlesticks had white shades, on which were caught sprays of valley lilies and white tulle, and all the color detail was in pink and white. Souvenirs at each place were white moire boxes of cigarettes for the men, bearing the wedding monogram in gold letters, and embroidered boxes of wedding cake for the ladies.

At the bride's table were the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Jr., Miss Nancy Hopkins, Mr. Frank Adair, Miss May Atkinson, Miss Leone Ladson, Messrs. Dozier Lowndes, Milton Dargan, Jr., Charles Scipio, Jr., Clarence Knowles.

Palms and ferns were massed appropriately and on mantel and buffet were pink roses and ferns. The wedding cake was on the buffet.

The rest of the wedding company were seated for supper at tables in the hall, each table having its centerpiece of Killarney roses and white stock.

The drawing-room was decorated with American Beauty roses, pink roses were used with effect in the music-room, and palms were massed luxuriantly in the rear hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins left during the evening for a wedding trip to the mountains of Virginia, and on their return they will be at home for the present with Mr. and Mrs. Payne.

Their marriage, while it was a quiet one, was an event of pronounced social interest, since both young people are widely and pleasantly known, and both are representative of families prominent in social and professional life. The bride, who comes of the best blood of Maryland, Virginia and Georgia, is a favorite with the married set and the young people, and Mr. Hopkins is a popular member of the clubs. He is successfully associated with the real estate firm of Forrest and George Adair.

Informal Dinner-Dance.

An informal dinner-dance at the Driving club will be a delightful event of Saturday night.

For Miss Barnes.

Luncheon.

Miss Guilford Dudley, of Nashville, who has been the guest of Mrs. Kenneth Ward-Smith, was entertained at a beautiful luncheon on yesterday by Mrs. R. L. Witherspoon.

Mrs. Witherspoon's home on West Peachtree street was attractive with growing plants and flowers.

The centerpiece of the table in the dining room was a plateau of pink and white sweet peas. The places were marked with corsage bouquets of sweet peas, the name of the guest on the ribbon tying the flowers, and all other details of the table were in pink and white.

Invited to meet Mrs. Dudley were Mrs. Ward-Smith, Mrs. C. K. Nelson, Mrs. Samuel Inman, Miss McDeeters of Raleigh, Mrs. J. B. Campbell, Mrs. Alfred Buck, Mrs. Dudley of Maine and Mrs. J. K. Ottley.

For Mrs. Dillard.

Mrs. James Spotswood Dillard, of Lynchburg, Va., will be the guest of honor at bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Clarence Wickersham on Friday. The luncheon will be given at Mrs. Wickersham's home in College Park. Invited to meet Mrs. Dillard are Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Misses Ella and Bessie Hutchinson, Miss Annie May Hardin, Mrs. Chancellor Thornton, Mrs. Charles Wilkinson, Mrs. Trammell, Mrs. Emma Connally, Miss Mary Goodrum, Mrs. Alfred Murrell, Mrs. George Longino, Mrs. Edward Richardson, Mrs. Stacy Thornton and Mrs. Miller of Ohio.

Mrs. Wickersham will give a tea Tuesday afternoon, May 6, in compliment to Mrs. Dillard.

Mrs. Lokey's Tea.

Mrs. Hugh Lokey entertained twenty guests at a pretty tea yesterday afternoon at her home on Fourteenth street in compliment to her guest, Miss Elizabeth Wynn, of Richmond, Va. The decorations were in white and yellow. Dogwood blossoms, snowballs and yellow peonies were used in artistic effect throughout the apartments and the centerpiece of the tea table was a beautiful arrangement of yellow peonies. The candle shades were yellow and all details of the pretty table were white and yellow.

Mrs. Lokey was gowned in wistaria crepe meteor combined with lace and Miss Wynn wore white crepe over charmeuse satin.

For Bridal Party.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Ison entertained at a buffet supper last evening at their home in College Park after the wedding rehearsal of their daughter, Miss Annie Mae Ison, and Mr. James Doyle Butler. The house was attractively decorated with ferns and flowers, a decorative scheme of pink and white being carried out in all details. HOW RESINOL CURED ATLANTA WOMAN'S PIMPLES

Atlanta, Ga., April 24, 1913.—"When I received the samples of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment my face was covered with pimples which defied other creams, soaps and cosmetics. They were a source of constant humiliation to me, coming in contact with many strangers, as I do, as a business woman.

"By the time I had finished a cake of Resinol Soap and half a jar of Resinol Ointment, my skin was soft as velvet, and as smooth. My friends were astonished, and everyone asked me what I had done. When I told them, I think they hardly believed it, for the transformation was simply wonderful.

"Since then I have been using Resinol Soap and shall never be without it again, for I have learned the delights of a clear, soft, beautiful complexion that can be attained by its constant use." (Signed) Miss E. P. Gaddis, 284 S. Pryor Street.

For 18 years Resinol has been a doctor's prescription and household remedy for skin troubles, wounds, burns, sores, piles, etc. Resinol Ointment (50c and $1) and Resinol Soap (25c) are sold by all druggists. For sample of each, with booklets, write to Dept. 10Z-L Resinol, Baltimore, Md.—(Adv.)

EXPERIENCE OF TRAINED NURSE

Who Had Troubles of Her Own to Contend With, As Told by Mrs. Rutherford.

Charlestown, W. Va.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Calvin Rutherford writes as follows: "At one time I suffered terribly from womanly troubles. Some of my symptoms were hot flashes through the face, pains in my sides and back, headache, dizzy spells, and pain low down.

Since taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, I am well and enjoying good health, and I want to think you kindly for your advice. It certainly has proven a blessing to me. Cardui has done what other medicines failed to do.

I am a trained nurse, and have just returned from a case where I recommended Cardui to a lady and she is now taking it."

In the face of such strong recommendation from users of Cardui—the ones who know best just what this preparation will do for weak, ailing women,—no wonder we do not have to make extravagant claims for it.

All we can add to the above statement, is that Cardui is prepared from perfectly harmless, vegetable ingredients, which act gently, yet directly, on the womanly organs.

It is a strengthening tonic and helps to build up womanly strength.

It has helped thousands of women in the last 50 years. Why not you?

Gentlemen, we have with us today Norman I. Taylor, an advertising expert, of Detroit.

In an address before the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, he said:

"Newspaper advertising is the very best business insurance. I advise every future druggist present to spend at least one-tenth of each month's sales in advertising for the next month. Such an expenditure will go far toward insuring continued prosperity."

Continuing, he said: "Most waste in advertising is due to the lack of 'know how.' All men who feel they are not warranted in giving their business to an advertising firm, or writer, should study the methods in use in their daily papers. They should be able in this way to gain knowledge which will enable them to avoid serious waste."

The advertising experts of your own city confirm these statements. We add, that when he spoke for druggists he spoke for all business men.

If you have not the time to devote to the preparation of your advertising, and are willing to concede that we know as much about our business as you know about yours, we shall be only too glad to help prepare your copy so it will bring the greatest returns.

Marriage of Miss Eckert And Mr. J. O. Bagwell

Not hundreds but thousands of people among all elements of Atlanta people will be interested in the event of the marriage of Miss Daisy Eckert, formerly secretary of the Young Woman's Christian Association of Atlanta, to Mr. J. O. Bagwell, the ceremony, performed yesterday at 1 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Woods White on Howard street.

Although it was known among their intimate friends that the marriage was to take place, the time had not been stated. Many of the guests who assembled at the hospitable home in response to an invitation to luncheon did not know of the wedding until the strains of the wedding march were heard, and the lovely bride entered the room on the arm of Mr. Bagwell, and Dr. Daniel stepped forward to perform the ceremony.

Two little girls, Frances Parks and Mary White, wearing dainty white frocks and carrying baskets of roses the only attendants and the bride's sister, Miss Eckert, of Cincinnati, stood near her during the ceremony. Afterwards there was a reception and a delicious breakfast served. The bride wore a white lace gown, the draped corsage and skirt caught with bow knots of pearls. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies, and a cluster of these were in her dark hair.

Mrs. White, the charming hostess of the occasion, wore sky blue satin with trimmings of lace.

The house throughout was decorated with branches of dogwood blossoms, bowls and vases of snow balls, and a radiant color note was struck with red roses. In the dining room the table from which the bonbons were served had a centerpiece of snowballs, and the minor appointments were in white and pink.

The bride, as Miss Daisy Eckert, came to Atlanta two years ago to assume the duties of the secretary of the Young Woman's Christian Association. She was possessed of a wonderful executive ability, and she soon brought a new life to the association work. She not only performed the duties of her office, but she went out to the girls of Atlanta who needed her instead of waiting for them to come to her. She went to the factories, and institutions where large numbers of them were employed, and she visited them in their homes when they were sick. She saw the needs of some who themselves did not know it, and today there are hundreds of young women workers in the city, who owe not only their positions to this noble young woman's effort, but the genteel homes in which they are.

No one who asked help or counsel of her ever failed to get it, and her addresses before public gatherings in behalf of the working girl and her needs have proved the greatest inspiration.

Mr. Bagwell is a well known and highly esteemed member of Atlanta's younger citizenship, and has a wide acquaintance throughout the state. He is a graduate of Mercer college.

He and his bride left last evening for the northwest, and on their return in the fall will go to housekeeping in Atlanta.

Superfluous Hair Truths

De Miracle

The Only Safe Hair Remover

Each application of an unknown depilatory is a dangerous experiment and likely to cause permanent disfigurement. The mere fact that such preparations are short-lived should alone be sufficient warning to avoid their use. De Miracle has stood the test of time, having been sold for over 31 years, therefore it is the only depilatory you can use without experimenting.

The Unoffensive Depilatory

If you use De Miracle it will be impossible for any odor person to know that you have used a hair remover because De Miracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, and there leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distinctive odor an offensive smell will cling to your skin for hours.

STRIBBLING-FOSTER.

Roswell, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—A lovely event of Tuesday afternoon was the wedding of Miss Martha Neel Stribling and Mr. Joseph Hudson Foster, which occurred at 5:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Y. Stribling. The home was beautiful in its decorations.

The wedding march from LoHengrin was played by Mrs. C. C. Foster, and the bridal party entering from the library formed a pretty group before an improvised altar. The ring bearer, Aubrey Mots, Jr., the little nephew of the bride, bore a cushion of white satin, painted in pink sweet peas. The little flower girl was Margaret Foster. The bride was in her traveling suit of navy telegaline crepe, in a deep blue shade worn over a blouse of shadow lace draped with blue chiffon, a small hat of the same blue hue completed the stylish costume. Her flowers were a corsage bouquet of valley lilies.

Mr. Greene, of the Methodist church, repeated the impressive ring service, with which they plighted their troth. During the ceremony Mrs. Foster softly played "Hearts and Flowers."

After an extended wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Foster will make their home in Roswell.

CLUB WOMEN HOLD RALLY FOR THE WOMAN'S EDITION

What the meaning is of federation among women had emphatic illustration yesterday when the women workers of the woman's edition of The Constitution met to hear reports read pertaining to the work on the woman's edition to be published in June.

Mrs. P. J. McGovern presided and the women reporting on the various phases of the work vied with one another in the enthusiasm they aroused. Mrs. Nicolas Petterson, of Tifton, Ga., district vice president of the Georgia federation, was present and reported what had been done at the recent council of club women held in Washington city. At that meeting there were five thousand delegates, representing thirty-two states, and through these delegates work for circulation was started which will carry the woman's edition to as many different states.

Through the courtesy of the Georgia senators and congressmen the Georgia ladies visited the senate and house and there obtained subscriptions and assurances that the edition would be sent to Europe in circulating the woman's edition wherever the typographical union is represented.

Mrs. Smith, representing the Atlanta union, stated that she had sent circulation blanks and letters setting forth the purposes of the edition to the thirty-two chapters in as many states, and that already she was receiving responses. Newspaper clippings were read from papers in and out of the state, which proved the far reaching interest in the achievement of the women of Georgia.

Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale read the names of the advertisers in the woman's edition, not only those of Atlanta, but those of the state, and a list of these will be prepared and sent to the club women in all parts of the state.

Among the speakers of the morning who brought in reports and from whom reports came were Mrs. J. R. Oxley, Mrs. Edward T. Brown, Mrs. Hugh Willett, Mrs. F. J. Spratling, Mrs. Frank Nealey, Mrs. Hamilton of Decatur, Mrs. Everett, Dr. Traus, Mrs. C. C. Nicols, Mrs. James L. Dickey, Mrs. R. F. Maddox, Mrs. S. M. Inman, Mrs. Woods White and Mrs. Arthur Powell.

A Message From Fitzgerald.

As an example of the interest being manifested by the women where there are club workers was the letter which was read yesterday by the secretary from Mrs. Lon Dickey, president of the club there, to Mrs. Frank Nealey, of Atlanta. She wrote:

"Fitzgerald, Ga., April 28, 1913.

"My Dear Mrs. Neely:

I mailed you yesterday the Fitzgerald write-up furnished me by our city clerk, Mr. George Brown. They are anxious for this to appear in full in the space for which they are paying $75, and I trust you may be able to give me a report on it after the meeting Tuesday. The columns which we get for advertising we wish to fill with activities, social and otherwise,' which your state news editor, Mrs. John M. Slaton, has asked for, so one of our most interesting things just at this time being our May festival on May 8.

"This morning I have been telephoning our committees and have arranged to meet them Thursday morning, May 1, at 9 o'clock, to canvass the town, selling the Woman's edition of The Constitution. In addition to the committees, we are asking all club members to meet with us and help in the circulation. We hope to report a nice sale. We hope at the same time to secure more advertising, and wind up all business so we can proceed with our May festival preparations.

"Could you not come and be my guest for the May festival? I make my home at the hotel and would do all possible to make you enjoy your visit to our little city. Let me know about this.

"With all good wishes for the success of the woman's edition.

"Cordially yours,
"ELLA MAE DICKEY.
"(Mrs. Lon Dickey.)"

An interesting program will be prepared in honor of the occasion.

No work being done by the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., in the interest of perpetuating true southern history is proving more helpful and practical than the writing of essays on subjects of southern history by the school children in Fulton county, and the number of essays submitted suggests the wide spread benefit of the annual contest.

Bankrupt Has No Assets.

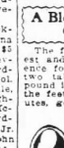
A Blessing to Victims Of "Sore Foot" Agony

The following is said to be the surest and quickest cure known, to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fully fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the horny parts.



The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly, the feet feel delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. It's useless to buy uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house.

Valdosta, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the United States district court here today against the Atlantic and Gulf Mills, the big sea island cotton mill at Quitman, Ga. The creditors filing the petition are George D. Witt Shoe company, Lynchburg, Va.; A. Kent, of Quitman Ga., and Seaman Bros., of New York city. The petition was filed through their attorneys, Woodward and Smith, of Valdosta, and Grover Edmondson, of Quitman.

The creditors named are unsecured, and, while the aggregate amount of their claims is comparatively small, it is understood that there are a number of other unsecured creditors, the bankruptcy proceedings being instituted to protect their interests.

It is alleged that the company's property is heavily mortgaged, the banks at Quitman holding the mortgages, and that recently the officers of the company made a mortgage or bill of sale to some of the stockholders covering the cotton on hand, the goods in process of manufacture or to be made during the year.

The affairs of the mill are understood to have been in a cramped condition for some time. It is the only mill in this section of the state working sea island cotton.

Fine Remedy for A Backward Child

Continue it for Only a Brief Period and the Good Results will Surprise You.

A low state of the general health is now the accepted cause of backwardness in children. So in the case of a backward child it is best to look towards building up its health. It will usually be found that the main trouble is in the food, in lack of assimilation and digestion. Hence care should be taken in the kind of food given to the child. This, with plenty of air and exercise, should bring about a change for the better.

Watch the conditions of the bowels, to note whether the waste is being passed off or not, or whether it is being passed too freely. Either condition prevails give a small dose of that gentlest of all laxative-tonics, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Hundreds of mothers will testify to the wonders it has wrought in the lives of their own children, and for that reason legions of families like those of Mrs. J. E. Brunty, 1903 8th st., Nashville, Tenn., are never without it in the house. Mrs. Brunty writes: "Harry had always been constipated until I gave him Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I am certainly going to keep this medicine in the house in future, for I know it to be good." It is pleasant to the taste and so perfectly safe that it is given to infants, and yet is equally effective for grown people. All druggists sell it and the price is only fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter for families who need it regularly.

HARRY BRUNTY.

Syrup Pepsin has no equal as a cure for constipation, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, liver trouble and kindred complaints. It has so many advantages that those who once use it forever after discard cathartics, salts, pills and other coarse remedies, for they are seldom advisable and should never be given to children.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

ISN'T THIS AWFUL? IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE

Another remarkable case was brought to light at Coursey & Munn's drug store. Among those who called was Mrs. H. E. Goddard, living at North Decatur, R. F. D. No. 4. She said: "I got some Quaker Extract for my indigestion, and I know it will show good results, but the most important is the case of our little girl, Lola May, who is 3 years old. For months she had been complaining with her stomach. She had severe pains and was restless, fretful and nervous. We gave her what was recommended, but she wasn't benefited. When we got the Quaker Extract we decided to give her some also, as it is for worms as well as stomach and indigestion. After taking one-half bottle of Quaker Extract the girl expelled nearly a handful of small stomach worms. She is feeling better and is gradually gaining health. Quaker is sure enough a mighty good medicine."

The Health Teacher says any case of worms of any kind can be permanently cured by Quaker Extract, for it contains in its formula an herb that is powerful, though absolutely harmless to even an infant. For catarrh in any form, kidney or bladder complaints, rheumatism, indigestion or stomach troubles, Quaker Extract and Oil of Balm Olive have never been equaled. If there is a remedy "just as good," why hasn't it made the cures? Quaker is not full of minerals, chemicals or any other of the ordinary dopes used, but is strictly pure herbs, roots, barks, berries, gums, leaves and blossoms.

Investigate any or all of the cases as they are published and decide accordingly. All sufferers are welcome who have any of the above troubles to call at Coursey & Munn's Drug Store, 29 Marietta street. Quaker Extract for $5.00, 2 for $2.50, $1.00 a bottle. Oil of Balm 25 cents a bottle, or 5 for $1.00. Do not fail to call today and obtain good health. We prepay express charges on all orders of $5.00 or over.

The Crackers play in Birmingham today, the first of nineteen games on the road. The team will not be back home again until May 19. If they break even they will do well.

GULLS NOW LEAD LEAGUE

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

On Long Jaunt.

THE CRACKERS left last night on their swing around the circuit. They left in second place. What position they will be in when they return is problematical. Bailey's absence from the line-up hurts, but Bill will be back in the fray in the Sunday game at Mobile.

An Even Break.

TEN VICTORIES in the nineteen games should be all that local fans must expect of the team on this jaunt. If they cop more, all praise to them. But such a showing would be creditable. Even breaks in Birmingham, Memphis and Montgomery should be secured. Mobile is doubtful, while unless the Pelicans show a big improvement by the time the Crackers get there in the middle of the month, two out of three should be captured in Pelicanville.

Up To Hurlers.

THE PITCHERS must carry the burden on this trip. It behooves them to round into form. If they do, the trip will be a success. If they fail, we hate to say what will happen. The rest of the defensive work can be counted on to be up to the mark, while the offense is all that can be desired.

The Right Spirit.

THE DIRECTORS of the local association are awake to the fact that this is the year for them to have a winner and they are not sparing any expense to get a ball club that will be right in the race from start to finish. They proved this when they told Manager Smith that if he did not believe that his shortstop would do, to go out and get a good one and to keep buying until he got one that suited. Smith landed Williams, who looks good, and on top of this comes Bisland's purchase.

Not Through.

THEY have not quit yet. If the present pitching staff does not come around to the form expected of it, the skids will be put under them and some new hurlers purchased. The local mogul believes that the first few warm days will thaw out the veterans, Brady and Weaver. Price and Musser have delivered. Just on general principals a fifth hurler will propably be bought in the near future and the can tied to Bauswein.

His Vindication.

C. WEBB MURPHY is being vindicated. Take a glance at the comparative standings of the Chicago Nationals, led by his managerial choice, Trojan Evans, then look at where the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds, led by former Cubs, reside. Draw your own conclusions. Is Chubby Charley chuckling? He should worry.

Is Appeased.

"S. FRANK will not make any fight on the possession of William, by the Crackers. This is the latest development in the case. Manager Clark Griffith having appeased his anger of the Dutchman in some manner, not officially explained. The Old Fox has a way of doing things and we trust implicitly to him.

A Real Find.

"BISLAND will make Bill Smith's infield as strong as his outfield." This praise was drilled out voluntarily yesterday by a well-known baseball man who knows. He says the ex-Central Leaguer was the cream of that league. The reason the Pirates held on to him so long as they did was because he showed so much promise and Wagner's injury. But as Wagner is coming back into form and Vico is showing so well as an understudy, that the Pirates could let Bisland go. But they have a string attached.

Down To Limit.

THE CLUBS of the Southern league are to all intents and purposes within the salary and player limit this morning. It's an even money bet that they are all inside the player limit. How many are really inside the salary limit is a matter of conjecture.

First Whitewash of Year Given Crackers by Beck; Vols Make Clean Sweep

By Dick Jemison.

George Beck, the star twirler of the Nashville Volunteers, made it three straights for his club Tuesday afternoon, incidentally smearing the whitewash brush for the first time this season.

Beck had the Crackers feeding out of his hand for seven innings and when he wavered in the last two sessions, his support came to his rescue and klcked in with some brilliant stabs that cut off some runs.

Beck baffled the Crackers but four binglies during the afternoon. He worked like a master throughout the fray and seemed to have perfect control of the situation.

King Brady was pitted against him and the veteran right hander hurled a mighty fine game of ball, a game that would win nine times in ten, but Tuesday was the tenth time. Beck pitched a better game, is the answer in a nutshell.

Smith and Young.

Wallie Smith and Del Young were the stars of the pastime from a fielding standpoint and as there was very little hitting on either side, the fielding plays were the ones to conjure with.

Wallie started two fast double plays, making wonderful pick-ups and throws on the two balls that were hit to him, both being hard chances.

Young saved Beck with shoe-string catches in right field in the last two innings of the game, with players panting on the bases ready to come home with the runs that would have tied up the old ball game.

In the eighth inning, Alpermann, who had already secured two hits, nailed one on a line over Schwartz's head for the bull. Young, by a hard sprint, running sideways, dove for the ball, stumbled and almost fell. He saved at least one and maybe two runs by this catch.

In the ninth with a man on first and third and two out, Joe Dunn was sent in to bat for Kerrin, who was subbing for Bailey in left.

Dunn's smash was a duplicate of Alpmann's though shorter, and Young had to sprint forward and catch it near the ground. Had either of these raps gotten away, Beck and the Volunteers would have been minus a ball game.

Vols Have Our Goat.

It begins to look as if the Nashville Volunteers have the Cracker's goat. Seven times the two teams have battled and five times the Vols have been returned victorious, though three of their five victories have been by one run margins, showing that the games have been hotly contested.

But this is nothing new. If you will trace your way back through the Southern league history since the time Atlanta stared in the league in 1902, you will see that the Vols have always won a majority of the games from the Crackers, no matter what kind of a team either club had.

It is just a case of luck. Some teams can always beat others with regularity, and it seems to be a habit for the Vols to pin it on the Crackers three times in five at least.

All of which is by way of excuse. Beck pitched a great game and deserved to win. We do not want to take any of the credit away from him. He had the Crackers eating out of his hand, and when hits meant runs they were not forthcoming.

Three fast double plays by the Crackers and a one-handed stab by Whitey Alperman, who robbed Bill Schwartz of a bingle, were the other features.

How They Scored.

The Vols scored a run in the first session, and another in the ninth.

With one gone, Goalby worked Brady for a ticket via the Big Four, and Alperman, the middle outfielder, trimmed home on Perry's two-play smash to center field.

Callahan singled in the ninth; was sacrificed to second by Perry and scored to Schwartz's single.

Berger yielded six hits, but excellent support offset his lack of control. Seven innings were played by agreement in order to allow the visitors to catch a train.

Birmingham, Ala., April 29.—Covaleskie and Thompson engaged in a fine pitching duel this afternoon in which the veteran of Chattanooga slightly outpointed the former collegian, who is now a member of the Birmingham team. The score was 3 to 1, in favor of the visitors. At the conclusion of the ninth, the score was tied. In the tenth, Street scored Flick from second with a double, and he himself scored a second later on a hit by King. The hitting of King, incidentally, was a feature.

New Orleans, April 29.—After Montgomery apparently had the locals beaten here today, New Orleans rallied in the ninth inning and the game was called on account of darkness at the end of the twelfth with the score 6 to 6. Breen's bad throw, singles by Spencer and Snedecor, a double by Yantz and a three-base hit by Knaupp netted four runs and tied the score in the ninth. Paige struck Bagby in and held the locals safe during the remainder. The visitors scored early on Swindell and Brenton, but could do little against Evans. Extra-base hits were common. The visitors stole easily on Yantz. Many changes and substitutions were made. Atz was ejected for protesting a decision.

GORDON BLANKS MERCER BUNCH

Sewanee Southpaw Entirely Too Strong for Baptists. Tigers Bunch Hits With Mercer Errors.

By John L. Westmoreland.

Macon, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—In a rather one-sided affair Sewanee took the last game of the series from Mercer by the score of 4 to 0.

The same man who shut Mercer out last year in a no-hit game again held them to five scattered hits and no runs. Mercer men seemed perfectly unable to connect with Southpaw Gordon's benders.

Mercer's first chance to score in the second, with Farmer on second and Hunt on third, was lost when McKnight struck out. In the ninth, with Hunt on third, Roddenbery flew out to center.

Sewanee scored first in the second, McGoodwin coming in on Fanning's grounder.

In the sixth Gordon singled, and then after stealing second, came in home on McGoodwin's long drive.

In the third Jones walked, went to third on Whited's single and came home on a squeeze play.

In the eighth Fanning went to first on an error by Shortstop Dinkins and went also to third on a sacrifice. Fanning advanced to third and Dinkins to second on Jones' sacrifice. The squeeze play again worked for two runs. Armbruster came up with two down, no one on bases, walked to third on Hammond's hit and came home on Irwin's passball.

CRACKERS' NEW SHORTSTOP

"REBEL" WILLIAMS.

The Crackers' new shortstop, whose work in the two games with the Nashville Volunteers stamps him as a real performer. If his work in the games Monday and Tuesday is any criterion of what he will do when he gets accustomed to his surroundings, he'll do. Williams was given his nickname by the Washington Senators, with whom he played this spring. He is a Kentucky boy by birth. Hence the nickname.

Crackers Play Barons Today; First Game of Three Weeks, Invasion of Hostile Camps

Bisland Joins Team Thursday in Birmingham. Becker Placed On Ineligible List. May Go to Fort Worth. Kernan to Be Released Outright When Bisland Joins Team.

The Crackers open up a four-game series with Birmingham Barons, on Rickwood field, this afternoon.

This is the first game of a long road trip, on which the Crackers will visit Birmingham, Mobile, Montgomery, Memphis and New Orleans in that order, returning home May 18.

Four games will be played in the first four named cities, and three in the last, nineteen games in all.

This trip will mold or break the Crackers. Just where they will finish the season will be clearly shown at the conclusion of this long jaunt.

Casting aside any sentiment and looking at the trip from a sane angle, ten victories in the nineteen games will be a most creditable showing. More than ten wins should earn for the Creckers the plaudits of all local fans.

Bill's Statement.

"If we come back to Atlanta in the first division we will be hard to head. The first long road trip of the year is always a hard one. With my pitchers not in the very best of shape the road trip is all the more exactine. But with a few warm days, I believe they will come around."

"With Bisland at short, my infield will be air-tight. My offense is all that could be desired. And I am sure the pitchers will show their true form shortly. If Weaver and Brady get the sorceress out of their salary whips, I'll probably work Musser. Price, Weaver and Brady in that order with the fifth man to relieve any of them if they waver."

In the Birmingham series which starts today, the Crackers will be without the services of their clean-up man and left fielder—Harry Bailey. "Shawnee Bill's" absence from the line-up hurts immeasureably.

Bailey's sore foot will probably mend in time for him to join the team in time to get in Sunday's game in Mobile.

Bisland Reports Thursday.

Manager Bill Smith received a wire from the Pittsburg club last night stating that Bisland would join the Atlanta team in Birmingham in time to get in Thursday's game.

Jack Kernan will play left field in today's opening game and when Bisland joins the club he will be given his outright release and Bisland will go to left field.

"Bisland has played outfield before," said Manager Smith last night, "and I will use him in left field until Bailey is able to rejoin the team, which I expect will be about Sunday, in Mobile."

When Bailey joins the team, Bisland will go to short and Williams to the bench, filling utility roles.

Buck Becker was placed on the ineligible list Tuesday night and will be disposed of just as soon as a place is secured for him.

Fort Worth, in the Texas league, has made a bid for the player and the deal may be closed this afternoon.

The following is the complete road schedule:

April 30—Birmingham.
May 1-2-3—Birmingham.
May 4-5-6-7—Mobile.
May 8-9-10-11—Montgomery.
May 12-13-14-15—Memphis.
May 16-17-18—New Orleans.

CORLEY BLANKS THE COMMODORES

Georgia Wins First Game of Series From Vanderbilt by 9 to 0 Score—Play Again Today.

By Clark Howell, Jr.

Athens, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The cherished hope of the Vanderbilt Commodores of becoming champions of the Southern International Athletic association was given a rude shock by Cunningham's Red and Black aggregation this afternoon when the Georgians piled up nine tallies as the result of ten runs, while the Tennessee boys were blanked, connecting for only three safeties, two of which were of the doubtful variety.

The Commodores were sailing on troubled seas during the entire fray, but it was not until the sixth stanza that the visitors were completely inundated by the terrific reign of the local clouts. The Athenians pickled the pellet for ten bingles for an aggregate of twenty-three bases.

Corley, the phenomenal hurler of the local team, was complete master of the situation at all stages of the contest and only three times did the Nashville boys reach the second sack. He fanned nine of the visitors, walked one and, not satisfied with his work, lifted the ball into the ditch for the complete circuit.

All the Georgia batters hit safely with the exception of Captain McWhorter, who scored three runs and robbed Davidson of a hit by a beautiful shoe-string catch. Erwin and Covington were the only batters who rapped out as many as two hits. Ginn ditched the ball for four sacks.

In the fielding department Clements coruscated, taking nine difficult chances without a bobble. The entire team played jam-up ball, however, while the visitors seemed to be a trifle in the air.

The victory was witnessed by the largest crowd seen on Sanford field this year and was relished greatly as vengeance for the defeat inflicted upon the Georgians by the Commodores during the football season.

Should Wednesday's game be won by the Georgians it will, in all probability, give them the undisputed championship of the south.

P. Turner starred for the visitors, making one hit and reaching second twice by the stolen-base route. McClure was able to get only one man. Sykes and Morris will probably be the opposing twirlers Wednesday.

DUNDEE DRAWS WITH KILBANE

Kilbane Outpointed Dundee in Every Round, but Latter's Desperate Rally in Twentieth Won Draw.

LOS Angeles, Calif., April 29.—Johnny Dundee was given a draw at the end of his twenty-round fight tonight with Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion. Kilbane apparently out-pointed the challenger in every round, but the Italian's desperate twentieth round finish in the opinion of Referee Eyton, earned him a draw. The decision was unpopular and the crowd voiced its disapproval.

Kilbane defended his title for the first time since he won it from Abe Attell here on February 22, 1912. Betting odds were 2 to 1, with comparatively little Dundee money in sight just before the fight.

The men were slightly under the required 126 pounds. Referee Eyton started the boys at 9:22.

The Fight by Rounds.

Round 1. They rushed into a clinch and wrestled about the ring. Kilbane jolted Dundee with left and right to chin and Dundee planted a hard right to the face as they separated. Kilbane avoided a rush and landed a hard straight right to the head as the round ended. Kilbane's round.

Round 2. Kilbane rushed the Italian to the ropes, planting a hard right to the stomach. He jabbed Dundee's face with rights and lefts. Kilbane put two hard rights to the face as the round ended. Kilbane's round.

Round 3. Dundee tried his leaping-in-the-air blow, but Kilbane was three feet away before he could land. Kilbane rushed the New Yorker to the ropes. Both did clever work at long range, but neither landed a hard blow. Dundee took the aggressive and chased Kilbane around the ring. Kilbane took a light left to head as the bell rang. Round even.

Round 4. Dundee put two hard lefts to the jaw without a return and they clinched. The champion caught Dundee to the ropes. Dundee clipped Kilbane's chin with a stinging left. Kilbane landed a hard right to the stomach. Kilbane had the better of the infighting. Kilbane's round.

Round 5. Dundee missed a vicious swing and Kilbane jabbed three times with his left to the jaw. Dundee rushed, forcing the champion to give way. Kilbane jarred Dundee with a hard right to the face. Dundee threw himself in the air at the champion again and rushed Kilbane to the ropes as the bell rang. Kilbane's round.

Dundee Makes a Spurt.

Round 6. Kilbane worked Dundee to the ropes, landing three lefts to the face. Dundee reached the champion's face with a light left. Kilbane grabbed Dundee around the neck with his left and jarred him with a hard right. Dundee, in an aggressive spurt, landed with both hands to the face. Round even.

Round 7. Dundee came up with his right eye slightly damaged. Kilbane rushed him to the ropes with light body punches and placed a hard left to the stomach. Kilbane jabbed to the body in a clinch. Dundee sent a right to the body and left to jaw. Kilbane's round.

Round 8. Dundee rushed, but Kilbane rushed him, and landed lightly to the face. Kilbane was smiling as he drove a right uppercut which caught Dundee on the nose. Dundee clinched and Kilbane worked both hands to the body, apparently hugging the Italian. Dundee smashed a hard left to the ribs. Kilbane's round.

Round 9. A hard left brought blood to Dundee's mouth. Dundee did much jumping in the air, but failed to connect. Kilbane drove a terrific right to Dundee's chin and followed with a hard left to the face. He punished Dundee in the stomach in a clinch. Kilbane's round.

Dundee's Eyes Swollen.

Round 12.—Dundee's eyes were both swollen as he came up to meet a straight left to the jaw. Kilbane blocked many blows and landed repeatedly to the face. Kilbane drove left and right to stomach as Dundee tried to reach him via the air route. Kilbane sent the Italian to the ropes. Kilbane's round.

Round 14. They mixed in the center. Kilbane worked both hands to Dundee's sore eye. Dundee put three hard rights to the champion's face and Kilbane clinched. Dundee sent the champion's head back with a straight left, and staggered the champion with a left to chin. Dundee reeled to the ropes under a volley of blows to the face. Kilbane's round.

Round 15. Dundee drove a hard left to the jaw and the champion rushed him to the ropes. They wrestled about the ring. Kilbane planted a right uppercut to the Italian's bad eye. The gong found them in a clinch.

Round 17. Kilbane flailed body and face with both hands. They wrestled about and the champion sent Dundee to the ropes with a terrific right uppercut. Dundee held on and the referee broke them apart. Kilbane cut Dundee's eye with a right swing. Kilbane's round.

Round 18. Dundee covered up and the champion used his left to stomach. Dundee planted a left and took several hard blows to the stomach. Kilbane landed effectively on Dundee's sore eye and ducked vicious swings.

Round 19. Dundee rushed, but was met with two uppercuts. He drove a hard left to the chin. Both landed lightly. Kilbane had the better with short-arm blows. He staggered Dundee with a stiff right to the chin. Kilbane outslugged Dundee throughout the round.

Round 20. They touched gloves and jumped into a clinch. They exchanged stiff rights to the face, Dundee fighting *desperately. Dundee feinted the cham*pion into an opening and sent a hard left to the jaw. They closed, Kilbane scoring heavily on the body. The Italian battled viciously, putting lefts and rights to the jaw though apparently without damage as the gong rang.

PEACOCK DOWNS TECH HIGH SCHOOL

The fast Peacock-Fleet nine beat Tech High school yesterday afternoon in a lengthy ten-inning battle. The game was played on the Marist grounds and resulted in the close final score of 9 to 8.

Harlan did the best hitting for his team, sounding out one homer and two two-baggers out of five times at the platter. He was closely followed, however, by McRae, Carraway and Wells, although nearly ever fellow registered at least one bingle.

For Tech High school, Thomas came first, with three singles to his credit, while W. Parks and Scott followed him closely. The fielding of the two team's was about equal—only fair—with an average of about five errors to each squad.

The score by innings was as follows:

AMERICAN.

White Sox 6, Tigers 5.

Detroit, Mich., April 29.—Chicago defeated Detroit 6 to 5 today in a hard fought twelve-inning game that was full of thrills from the start to finish.

Ty Cobb, playing his first game of the year, received an ovation when he stepped to the plate in the first inning, but failed to produce the hit that would have scored Crawford, who singled before him.

In the third, the Georgian hit safely, scoring a run, but in the eighth, with two on bases, he rolled weakly to the pitcher for an easy out.

Cobb twice gave his old-time speed. In the eleventh he went from first to third while Weaver threw out Gainer at the initial sack. His two fielding chances were not difficult.

The Chicagos filled the bases in the first with none out, on a single, a pass and Gainer's error. Hall then walked Borton, forcing in Rath. Lord came in a moment later on an out. Detroit tied the score in the third on Bush's single, Crawford's triple and Cobb's single.

In the fourth Schaller walked, stole and scored on Weaver's single. Chicago took another in the sixth on singles by Borton and Schaller, with Easterly's sacrifice between.

Detroit tied the score in the eighth. Bush walked, Vitt and Crawford hit safely. Russell then replaced White and made a wild pitch on which Bush reached home. Veach's sacrifice fly scored Vitt. Three singles and a pass gave Chicago two runs and the game in the twelfth. Detroit failing to get one in the twelfth, Detroit failing to get one in the final half, although Hirh and Vitt hit safely.

Cubs 7, Reds 2.

Chicago, April 29.—The Cincinnati National league team, appearing on the field for the first time in history without red stockings, was defeated by Chicago today, 7 to 2, in st ad of the famous hose, which gave the club its sobriquet of "reds." Manager Tinker's men wore the stockings of the Chicago White Sox, lent by Owner Comisky, with complete outfit of uniforms, gloves, bats and shoes. The Cincinnati teams uniforms having been accidentally left at St. Louis. Misfit shoes and in some cases tight clothes handicapped the visitors. Some were unable to stoop low enough to stop grounders and others could not run fast enough to catch flies. The locals bunched hits with this poor fielding and won easily.

When the lack of uniforms was reported to Manager Tinker, upon the arrival of the club from St. Louis, he requested a loan from President Murphy, of the local club, but there was some difficulty about compliance, and Tinker called on Mr. Comisky.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 29.—New York defeated Brooklyn 6 to 0 today after Mathewson, the great right hander, and Rucker, star among left handed pitchers, had fought the battle of their lives for twelve runless innings. New York made a whirlwind finish in the thirteenth and won by scoring six times in a batting rally.

For seven innings Rucker pitched no-hit ball, but one New York player reaching first. He was Shafer, who got a base on balls in the opening inning. Murray, first up in the eighth, made the initial hit and was caught stealing. Mathewson also opened the ninth with a single, only to be forced out. Shafer got the third New York hit in the tenth and was caught stealing. Mathewson was hit more freely, but every time the Brooklyns got a start a fast double play stopped them.

Doyle opened the thirteenth with a double and Murray followed with an infield tap. The game more hits and with four runs and six hits counted, Rucker was relieved. Two outs and a hit off Stack brought the total up to six runs.

BRYAN LAUDS Y. M. C. A. AS A BUILDER OF MEN

Sacramento, Cal., April 29.—William Jennings Bryan was the principal figure at the cornerstone laying of the new Sacramento Young Men's Christian Association building today. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Bryan said:

"I have been a member of the Young Men's Christian association for more than thirty years. The Young Men's Christian association develops men strong enough in mind and strong enough in body and strong enough in character to direct both body and mind. The Young Men's Christian association fulfills the mission of the school, the church and the gymnasium.

"If you can show me the expenditure of money for the erection of reformatories you can justify the expense for a building to prevent young men from going to these reformatories. This is what the Young Men's Christian association does."

HAL CHASE TO REMAIN WITH THE HIGHLANDERS

Frank Chance Says Talk of Trading the Star Is a "Pipe Dream."

New York, April 29.—"There is nothing in the report that Hal Chase is to be traded to Boston or any other club," said Frank Chance tonight. The manager of the New York Americans admitted that Boston and other clubs would be glad to get Chase, but characterized the idea that there was any intention on the local club's part to dispose of the star first basement as a "pipe dream."

Chase is booked to play first base for the Highlanders tomorrow if the weather permits a game. Chance planning to lay off from active work for a while until his injured leg is back in shape again. There was little or no evidence in Chance's last appearance with the team that his injured limb was bothering him, but the results of a strenuous afternoon's play make themselves felt in a stiffness for which the club's trainer has prescribed a rest.

Charleston, S. C., April 29.—Richard S. Whaley, of Charleston, was today elected member of congress from the first South Carolina district. He was not opposed. The election was in ratification of Mr. Whaley's recent nomination in the democratic party. A very light vote was cast today.

Your Chalmers Is Worth $1000 More but Costs Only $300 to $500 More

When you order a suit of clothes you don't select the cheapest. Price is not your sole standard—but quality, looks, style, wearability. For these you are glad to pay a little higher price.

When you buy or build a house the cost is not the only thing considered. You want it well built, attractive, comfortable, permanent. And you are willing to pay a fair price for what you want even though you know cheaper houses can be bought.

The same thing is true—or should be—in buying a mofor car.

Don't decide the car question on price—but consider carefully what you get for that price. A Chalmers car will cost you $300 to $500 more than some other cars, but it is worth to you at least $1,000 more.

It is worth that much more because of the extra value it gives.

Extra value in dependable service. Chalmers cars built in Chalmers shops last longer than most cars. Eleven Chalmers cars have been driven 1,020,400 miles. Thousands of others, some in their 4th or 5th year, have been driven 50,000 to 75,000 and are still giving satisfaction.

Extra value in comfort. Nowadays people ask more of a car than merely to run. Chalmers cars, with big, roomy bodies, Turkish cushions, 11-inch upholstery, long flexible springs, big wheels and tires, give you perfect riding comfort.

Extra value in looks. Chalmers cars are beautiful cars. Cars you can be proud of in any company. $4,000 and $5,000 cars have no better lines or more perfect finish.

Extra value in satisfaction. It's poor economy to "save" a few hundred dollars on a motor car which you won't take permanent satisfaction in driving. Many have tried it. They have "saved" money and gained costly "automobile experience"—and have finally purchased cars of the Chalmers grade.

Why not purchase now the car you are sure to want later? Give us an opportunity to show you the Chalmers is worth $1,000 more but costs only $300 to $500 more.

TODAY-WEDNESDAY, 3 O'CLOCK P. M.-TODAY

Offers An Opportunity You Cannot Afford to Miss

In the Last

AUCTION

That Will Be Held in

Peachtree Heights

Do you want a home?

Today's auction in PEACHTREE HEIGHTS offers you the opportunity of a lifetime.

In buying a home site you want the right location, and you want good neighbors.

And, then, you want to know that your home is so situated that it is easily convertible into cash—more cash than you paid for it.

PEACHTREE HEIGHTS possesses these essential qualifications and more.

Geographically, it is located in the very heart of what will always be Atlanta's most popular and most attractive home section.

For class and tone, the neighborhood is unexcelled anywhere; those who know PEACHTREE need no elucidation of this fact.

PEACHTREE enhancement is a matter of familiar history. In the meantime, you choose your lot and build your home. You have every comfort, every convenience that the home-builder can desire.

You are just twenty minutes by trolley from the business center of the city.

And while you are enjoying home life in ideal surroundings, with parks and playgrounds on every hand, you have an investment that is growing daily in value, just as Atlanta is building in population.

Are you seeking an investment?

Let's get down to bedrock from the start:

When you buy a piece of residence property, you always look for something somebody else wants or is going to want.

The more others want it, the more it is going to enhance in value; and speed of enhancement is proportionate to the eagerness of their desire for it.

Simple reasoning? Yes, just the same old story of supply and demand.

There is just so much PEACHTREE property; there can NEVER be any more. BUT THE DEMAND FOR IT IS GOING TO CONTINUE TO GROW AS ATLANTA GROWS; AND ATLANTA IS GROWING AT THE RATE OF 15,000 NEW POPULATION EVERY YEAR. That growth means just so much increase in the value of PEACHTREE property every twelve months.

In ten years Atlanta's population increased 75 per cent.
In the same ten years Atlanta home-seekers bought and built on nearly three more miles of PEACHTREE.
Some twenty of these the last two years built their homes in PEACHTREE HEIGHTS.

At the same rate of growth in population and demand for PEACHTREE homes, do you realize where the next ten years will take them?

It will find Atlanta built up in homes more than two miles beyond Buckhead, with Buckhead taken into the city limits.

You are offered these lots today---42 of them---AT AUCTION PRICES.
You will never have an opportunity to touch them again at the prices at which you may secure them at this sale.
You will never again have opportunity to buy them at auction.
THEY ARE GOING TO BE SOLD, and if you want one or more of them, there is just one answer:
GO TO THE AUCTION AND BID.

The Terms Are Attractive:

One-fourth cash; balance 6-12-18-24 months, or one and two years, on or before, interest 6 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON WAS NERVOUS AND VERY UNSETTLED

At the Close May Showed Advance of 10 Points—Spot Cotton Quiet.

New York, April 29.—The cotton market was extremely nervous and unsettled today and there were violent fluctuations in May contracts. Generally speaking, old crop months were relatively firm, on covering and predictions of heavy shipments from the local stock, while later deliveries appeared to be influenced by favorable weather news, and reports of a good start with the new crop. Closing prices were steady at a decline of 10 points on April, an advance of 10 points on May, and unchanged to 12 points net lower on other positions.

The market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 4 points, on covering and buying for a reaction which was encouraged by steady Liverpool cables and revised estimates, indicating that houses with Liverpool connections had stopped selling, since representing between 40,000 and 50,000 bales yesterday. It was also rumored that this cotton would be shipped out during the month of May, and advances in ocean freight rates to Liverpool were attributed to the demand for this purpose. While New Orleans also reported an advance in ocean freights to Havre, as a result of engagements for the shipment of cotton taken up on May contracts in that market.

There was plenty cotton for sale around the opening figures, owing to unfavorable European cables and the favorable average of new crop news, and the market broke shortly after the call to a net loss of 2 to 4 points. At the decline there was a demand from May shorts, and with very few sellers of May around the ring, the price shot up very sharply during the middle of the day to a net advance of 23 points, and to a premium of about 3 points over July. Later positions responded only slightly to the old crop strength, however, and the market broke again in the late trading, with late months making new low average. The improvement under a favorable review of the weekly weather report, renewed liquidation and heavy selling from both southern and local sources.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, April 29.—It was a narrow and nervous market on the cotton exchange floor today unless some weakness was displayed; but declines were not wide and on all soft spots the market received good support from the commission operations of the short side. Bulls charged that the market was overbought, but strong bears were confident and increased their commitments very little, if anything, during the last few points.

The selling of the day was based partly on good weather and crop accounts and partly on peace talk and talk concerning the local political situation in Russia. The weather over the cotton region was clear and dry and the forecast indicated that these conditions would continue tomorrow. News from Texas was that planting was in good progress there. The bulls claimed that temperatures were too low for quick germination of seed and healthy growth of your cotton.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 2 points, which was in response to the failure of Liverpool to follow yesterday's decline on this side. Soon after the call prices were 3 to 4 points up, but selling increased and this early gain was lost. Around 11 o'clock, in the middle of the morning, shorts bought covering heavily and put the market 6 to 7 points above yesterday's close. This was the highest of the day. Offerings from the short side increased then, with French reports and on postmaster cables from Liverpool regarding politics.

The weekly weather report also stimulated selling. The market gradually fell off until in the afternoon it was 2 to 9 points under the final figures yesterday.

The close was steady at a net loss of 2 to 5 points.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, April 29.—There were some big interests today supporting the May positions and selling new crop months, and the market took a decline from which there was a small recovery, closed nine up. July was unchanged and October was nine down. The weekly weather report was more unseasonable cold weather in large part of the belt was entirely ignored. The market seems to be made up 1% for that and the next crop is going to be a bumper and is not allowing anything to interfere with this idea. Although new crops closed at the extreme low of the season, the close was called steady. There must be fine weather right along to the cotton belt to permit the bears to take down profits on the crop they are now selling at 11 freely.

Liverpool is due to come 1½ to 3 up on old crop positions and 2 to 2½ down on new crop months.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, April 29.—During the early part of today several selling was again quite heavy and prices ruled at a small decline as compared with yesterday's close. At the lower level, however, large shorts covered freely which, with Liverpool's demand absorbed offerings and sealed the local market. Selling has been so continuous that more caution is being expected by those who look for a decline, but fresh buying for speculative account is restrained by the character of crop reports.

Provisions.

Chicago, April 29.—Pork, $19.45. Lard, $10.90. Ribs, $10.87½@11.02½.

St. Louis, April 29.—Pork unchanged; jobbing, $19.50. Lard, unchanged; prime steam 10.80@10.90. Dry salt meats unchanged; boxed extra shorts, 11¾; clear ribs, 11¾; short clears, 12. Bacon unchanged; boxed extra shorts, 12¾; clear ribs, 13¾; short clears, 13.

Cincinnati, April 29.—Bulk meats, bacon and lard steady.

WHEAT WEAK AT CLOSE NET DECLINE ON DAY

Profit Taking Caused the Decline—Corn Also Lower. Oats Higher.

Chicago, April 29.—Wheat displayed nervousness under several conflicting influence and a net loss of 1-4@3-8c to 3-8@1-2c was recorded. Corn suffered a net depression of a shade to 1-4c, but oats finished 1-8 to 1-4c up and provisions made a net advance of 21-2 to 71-2@10c.

Weakness at the close of wheat trading came on profit-taking that followed a bulge caused by reports that Austria was moving troops to engage Montenegro, by renewed talk of damage from chinch bugs and Russian fly in the southwest, and by sales of 305,000 bushels of wheat for storage ports. Predictions of imminence of a general strike at Rosario, an important wheat-handling city or Argentine, also helped the early upturn. Against these bullish factors were the good weather and continued fine prospects in the domestic field, with the exception of the fears from persistent dry weather. The market was unsettled much of the session and it was not till near the close that the full effect of bear pressure was felt. Influential selling then sent prices off to near the low point of the day and weakness was manifest in the finish. Trading was heavy.

Receipts today were 1,355,000 bushels against 324,000 last year. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equalled 877,000 bushels.

Lightness of country offerings and firmness at Liverpool gave a little early strength to corn, but prices eased considerably.

Changing of May holdings to deferred months gave some strength to oats.

Provisions were uplifted on buying by shorts. Prices recovered from the extreme losses of yesterday.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, April 29.—So bearish is the feeling that there evidently remains an uncovered short interest in May, as that position advanced 23 points at one time, when it was found that tenders were assessed for foreign account. This crop remains steady with the selling movement transferred to the new crop, which is very large and bullish. Prices are made up 1% present prospect estimate as to business as a result of the tariff and the expectation of very large spinning considers almost certain to be larger than requirements. It is not unusual to see bearish forecasting at the season of the year, though experience is that it is not advisable to repeat the feeling is more bearish than ever.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, April 29.—Cotton seed oil was firm early on demand from shorts and local speculative buying on the last advance, but the list eased off later, under reports of lower crude premiums, poor consumptive demand and scattered liquidation. Closing prices were steady with account months 1 to 2 higher and new crop positions net unchanged. Sales, 2,100 barrels.

AUSTRIA'S ATTITUDE DEPRESSED STOCKS

Important Issues Made New Low Records for the Year. Bonds Irregular.

New York, April 29.—The pronounced weakness of European markets, caused by reports of Austria's belligerent attitude toward Montenegro, was of direct influence on the home market, where prices were depressed sharply today. Many of the important stocks made new low records for the year, with numerous losses on the day of 1 to 3 points. Pressure was heaviest against the international stocks, particularly Canadian Pacific, which slumped 3 points. Steel, the Harriman, Reading and Amalgamated Copper displayed marked weakness.

The market continued to reflect absence of demand and susceptibility to pressure. Prices broke sharply in the early trading. American stocks in London, which had shown general advances, weakened abruptly before the opening here and some of the early selling in this market was for foreign account. Before midday the list stiffened, but in the afternoon active selling was resumed, culminating in a vigorous drive during the last hour, which forced the market to the low point of the session. Selling appeared to be chiefly in the nature of bear pressure.

The quarterly statement of the Steel Corporation, which was shortly after the close of the market, was less favorable than was generally predicted, total earnings of $36,000,000 comparing with $38,000,000. While the average of prices received for steel was higher than in the December quarter, the gain derived from this source was offset by extensive flood damage and the increase in operating expenses in sultant on the advance in wages established February 1.

The expected announcement of an issue of New York city bonds was made today, the city offering $45,000,000 at 4 1-2 per cent. Outstanding issues were expressed in the announcement some of them touching new low prices. The new bonds sold, "when issued," on the curb at 100 1-2. For the month of April and the year to 1907, the city obtained an average of 102, and for a 1908 issue an average of 104. On account of the tight conditions in the money market, bankers predicted that the average for the new issue would be under 4½.

Bonds were irregular. Low prices were made by some reorganization issues. Total sales, par value, $2,581,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

London Stock Market.

London, April 29.—The stock market opened fairly steady today. Prices were inclined to harden until a report that Austria intends to take immediate active measures caused a pronounced weakness. The market closed flat.

American securities were advanced until the slump occurred in Canadian Pacific. This stock closed thirteen points over the low point, but the final tone was weak.

Consols on money, 74 11-16; consols for account, June 75.

Illinois Central, 118.

Louisville and Nashville, 135¾.

Southern Railway, 25¼.

Bar silver, steady, 25-16 per ounce.

Bradstreet's Available Supplies.

New York, April 29.—Special cable and telegraphic communications received by Bradstreet's show the following changes in available supplies, as compared with previous returns. Available supplies:

Wheat, United States, east Rockies, decreased 2,548,000 bushels. United States, west Rockies, decreased 102,000. Canada decreased 9,719,000. Total United States and Canada, decreased 12,370,000. Afloat for and in Europe, decreased 4,000,000. American and Canadian afloat, decreased 16,37,000.

Corn, United States and Canada, decreased 2,850,000.

Oats, United States and Canada, decreased 1,191,000.

Reading decreases included Chattanooga, 50,000.

Coffee.

New York, April 29.—Coffee futures opened steady at a decline of 8 to 14 points, in response to lower European cables, somewhat larger Brazilian receipts and reports of rather an easier cost and freight market. Private cables attributed the weakness abroad to nervousness over the situation in the Balkans, and the circulation of May rumors in London. Trade was comparatively steady, however, with very few buyers around the ring, prices continued to ease off, under liquidation and realizing, influenced by bearish sources. The close was steady. Sales, 27,500.

Spot easy; Rio sevens, 11¾. Santos fours, 13¾.

Mild quiet; Cordova, 14¼@17¼, nominal.

Havre—Spot steady; No. 7 superior, 54½ francs lower. Hamburg, 4@8 pfennig lower. Rio, 125 reis higher. Receipts, Santos unchanged. Rio exchange on London, 1-64d higher, at 13 7-64d.

Brazilian port receipts for two days, 17,000, against 14,000.

Sunday receipts, 2,000, against 12,000 last year.

Today's Santos cable reported market 60 lower at 6$800.

Sao Paulo receipts 6,000, against 4,000 for two days.

One hundred and twenty acres of land on Peachtree road, one mile from Chamblee, and adjoining the Folsom farm, are worth $18,000, to judge from a warranty deed filed yesterday, in which O. D. ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE
AT COURTHOUSE
37 BEAUTIFUL LEVEL LOTS AT PUBLIC OUTCRY,
ON FIRST TUESDAY, MAY 6, 1913

The W. C. Richards estate on Fourteenth street, at the corner of State street, also on State street, East street and Konts avenue, will be sold by order of court, at the courthouse on above date.

This is one of the prettiest sections of Atlanta, all the lots are beautifully level and desirable home sites. The new Richardson school is close by, electric cars near at hand. Fourteenth street is rapidly becoming the cross-town thoroughfare of North Atlanta. Fourteenth street has already water, sewer, tile sidewalks and curbing and electric lights, and the county is to pave it this spring.

State street is beautifully paved, has water, tile sidewalks and curbing. Purchasers, in our conscientious opinion, will double their money on these lots in the next year.

Call at our office for plats and go out on the ground without delay and see our signs on the lots. It will pay you to take a day off to investigate this.

ELMER T. DARDEN GETS THREE YEARS

"There Is No Such Thing as the Unwritten Law," Judge Tells Slayer of Cassie M. Goddard.

"There is no such thing as the 'Unwritten Law,'" said Judge L. S. Roan in the criminal division of the superior court yesterday afternoon just before he sentenced E. T. Darden, who claimed the man had wrecked his home, and had made this plea in the case of shooting C. M. Goddard, a [illegible] Judge Roan gave Darden a three-year sentence, stating that the jury which had convicted him of manslaughter in connection with the slaying, had asked that he be light on him.

Darden took his sentence calmly, making no reply when the usual question was asked him in regard to any further reasons being given as to why he should not be sentenced. When the judge finished he quietly thanked him for not making the sentence a longer one.

"That was a brave jury that convicted you, Mr. Darden," Judge Roan told the prisoner, "and if other juries would follow their simple duty and convict those guilty of shooting others, then men like you would not be so quick to let your passions get the better of you.

"We have got to enforce the law here and we have got to show you that you are not a public executioner and that you did wrong in shooting this man, whatever you thought your provocation was, and particularly as the affair occurred in a public depot, where women and children might have been killed."

Darden will possibly make an appeal for a new trial and ask to be released on bond in the meantime. John S. McClelland, one of his attorneys, stated last night that he was not as yet in a position to say whether an appeal would be taken, but that it would be decided this week.

So long as you buy the paper you should read all the news. The classified pages teem with news of interest every day.

"Pillows for mine!" said Herb Hasbrouck the other night.

Only one thing under foot is as comfortable as a pillow—that's a pair of Crossett Shoes.

Some day, some one will induce Herb to try Crossetts. Then he'll cut out his pillows and wear Crossetts.

DID MURDERERS PLAN CREMATION?

Detectives Believe That They Intended to Burn Body of Little Mary Phagan in the Furnace of Factory.

Did the murderers of Mary Phagan lower her body into the darkness of the pencil factory basement with the intention of cremating the corpse in the furnace of that plant?

Such is the belief of detectives. The dead girl was discovered only a few feet from the furnace. Her body had been dragged first to the fire box, circled around its base, then abandoned in the desolate recess in which it was found.

Investigation revealed that the fire-box was in condition to be lighted. It was littered with shavings and paper, and, to all appearances, in readiness for a new fire. The door was open. The aperture was hardly wide enough to admit a body the size of the victim's.

It is the detective's theory that the slayers were frightened from their original plans. The prized staple from the rear door indicated a hurried exit. Detective John Black told a Constitution reporter Monday of his belief.

"When the murderers swung the body through the trap door, they dragged it through the sawdust to the door of the furnace. The opening, probably, was not wide enough to admit a corpse of her size.

"Either that, or the men became frightened. In such were the case, they hastily dragged the dead girl to the hidden corner and deserted her. They either feared discovery, or were overwhelmed with fear that was inspired by the atrocity of their own crime.

"If it was intended to cremate the body, it was proposed by some one well acquainted with the building and basement. The negro nightwatchman often fired the furnace. He knew the basement from the elevator shaft up front to the rear entrance. He carried the detectives through every nook and cranny."

If the girl's body had been cremated the crime probably never would have been discovered. Mary Phagan would have vanished.

SHOT FIRED NEAR LEE MAY BREAK HIS NERVE

Walter Graham Discharges a Derringer in His Cell at the Police Station.

Will Newt Lee, the negro night watchman accused of the murder of Mary Phagan, be unnerved today as a result of the firing of a double-barreled derringer in a nearby cell last night.

Will his nerves become so shattered at the thought of death that he will confess, admitting the crime, or implicating others?

This is what the police will determine today in further third degree work with Lee.

Walter Graham, a young white youth of 75 Marietta street, smuggled a double-barreled derringer in his cell last night when arrested. In a nearby cell was Lee, drooping over after the strain of the last investigation.

Suddenly a shot was fired in the station by Graham. Lee jumped as though he himself had been shot. Then attempting to regain control of himself, he tried to pay no attention to it.

But all through the night he seemed nervous, as though he was about on the point of telling something.

Will this shot have the effect of breaking his nerve down completely, and cause him to tell what he knows today when questioned?

WITH THE THEATERS

"A Butterfly on the Wheel."

(At the Atlanta.)

This afternoon Miss Billy Long and the members of her company will give a special 25-cent matinee performance of the sensational divorce play, "A Butterfly on the Wheel." Changes made in the cast after the Monday performance have smoothed it out so that it is now a most excellent offering. The play is particularly a woman's play and this afternoon indications point to a packed house to see the tremendous scenes. Miss Long has won many plaudits through her excellent work. No performances will be given tonight nor Thursday night, but regular performances will be played Friday night, Saturday matinee and night. This afternoon Miss Long will give a reception following the performance.

"Billy the Kid."

(At the Lyric.)

A return to the melodrama of other days, when the "Silver King" and the "Bandit King" drew crowded houses to the theaters, is being experienced this week at the Lyric, where a real western melodrama, "Billy, the Kid" is being offered to large and appreciative audiences. After a season of society plays and musical comedies, a good old-fashioned melodrama seems to fill a long felt want, and patrons of the Lyric are showing their appreciation by patronizing the theater in goodly numbers.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

The Forsyth has been packed at four performances, and it would have been packed at five, but there have only been four. All of the acts make good. Sophye Barnard, Lou Anger & Co., Chris Richards, Misses Muriel and Francis and Barr and Hope are splendid entertainers, the sort that would make any show worth while. Next week the headliner will be Gus Edwards' Kid Kabaret, one of the newest and biggest musical novelty acts in modern vaudeville.

COUNTY SCHOOL OFFICERS MEET

Governor-Elect Slaton, Mayor Woodward and Superintendent Merry Welcome Delegates.

The annual convention of the county school officials of Georgia was opened last night with public exercises at Taft hall.

The meeting started with prayer by Rev. H. J. Arnett, superintendent of the Screven county schools.

The welcoming addresses were made by Governor-elect John M. Slaton, Mayor James G. Woodward and Superintendent E. C. Merry, of the Fulton county schools. The response was made by Superintendent George E. Benedict, of Polk county.

Two important and interesting addresses were made by M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, and Professor R. H. J. DeLoach, of the state college of agriculture. Mr. Brittain spoke of the great work that was being done in Georgia for the education of the young people, and pointed out many changes that could be made for the improvement of the schools. He said, among other things, that the steps that have already been taken to make the schools of the highest standard are being met by the most satisfactory results.

Nearly 3,000 Patches Contained in This Quilt Owned by Senota Woman

Senola, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—The Constitution last week reported a woman who owned a quilt with 1,812 patches, but Mrs. W. C. Vollenweider, who resides near Senola, has one with 3,500 patches or scraps, which she made in 1898.

Another unique relic in this community is a plush pocketbook owned by Frank Pope. The plush is covered with heads worked into leaves, fourteen colored heads in all. The pocketbook was made by the Indians and presented to Mrs. Cobb before they left this county more than 100 years ago.

PUT $4,000 IN POCKET AND LEFT THE BANK

Stanhope, N. J., April 29.—After it was discovered that J. Frank Best, cashier of the Citizens National bank of Netcong, was missing, the bank's president, Dr. P. H. Neldon, said today:

"So far as we have thus far been able to ascertain, Best did not falsify the books of the bank. Saturday morning it seems he simply put $4,000 of the bank's money in his pocket and walked out, saying he was going to lunch.
